CONGRESS TALKS OF PEACE-IN SENATE- OF WAR-IN HOUSE

Senate Wars Over Peace; House At Peace Over War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Peace and war were the twin subjects of discussion in congress today when the senate resumed the Borah-Reed fencing duel over the anti-war treaty and the house took up the army appropriation bill. The navy bill rested on the senate shelf to await disposition of the peace pact.

The congressional scene was in direct contrast to that of the senate a few days ago when Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Reed of Missouri were planning the sensational defeat of the Versailles treaty which embodied the League of Nations. Today Borah, risen to the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee, was defending his explanation and defense of the new fifty-nine-nation peace pact and Reed was pacing the floor waiting for an opportunity to answer him.

Borah told the United Press he expected to conclude his speech within an hour if other senators who have constantly interrupted him will permit him to continue undisturbed. He said he expected a vote on the treaty sometime next week.

Borah's argument is that the treaty is the best earnest effort the world has made toward peace. It embodies, he says, no obligation on the part of the United States to enforce it and gives every nation the right of self defense, allowing that nation to determine what it considers self defense.

The Monroe doctrine is fully protected under the self defense provision, he contends. He knows of no possibility whereby the doctrine or any other American right might become involved in the League of Nations.

Reed contends that either the treaty is worthless as an instrument of peace or it does involve the United States in some possibilities of conflict with European politics and the league. He is so earnestly opposed to the treaty that leaders were looking with some apprehension at the meeting of his Vire investigating committee which he called for this morning.

Of other matters under consideration by the senate chief interest was lodged in the two prohibition bills before the judiciary committee, one by Jones of Washington proposing a senate investigation of prohibition and the other by King of Utah suggesting transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department. They will be taken up by the committee Monday but leaders are pessimistic about their chances of serious consideration at this session.

The house had a peace show too which a delegation appearing before the foreign affairs sub-committee to point out the necessity for adequate ratification of the Kellogg pact.

The delegation was headed by Dr. Sydney L. Gulick, secretary of the good will committee of the federal council of churches.

BANK CALLS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A call for condition of all national banks as of December 31 was issued by the comptroller of currency today.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Call for report of the condition of all state banks, as of Dec. 31, 1928, was issued today by state banking superintendent E. H. Blair.

CONGRESS TODAY
Senate:
Considers Kellogg anti-war treaty, Borah continuing speech. Reed committee meets to hear Vire attorney.
House:
Considers war department appropriation bill.
Consensus committee takes up reappointment.
Irrigation committee takes up Columbia Basin bill hearing.
Foreign affairs committee considers resolution to put house on record as favoring the Kellogg peace pact.
Flood control committee considers general flood control situation.

Ways and means committee considers resolution which would allow states to sue government for back taxes for years 1866-67-68.

Thirty Deaths Reported On Continent As Winter Comes; Japanese Blizzard Takes Heavy Death Toll Along Coast

PARIS Jan. 4.—A death list of more than thirty was the toll of winter's first grip on the continent as gales, snow storms, and freezing weather prevailed and France, Italy and the Mediterranean suffered a second day's onslaught today.

Five deaths occurred in France yesterday. Snow continued to fall in many sections.

Italy was still swept by severe storms and southern rivers were overflowing their banks in many places.

Naples was hard hit, especially in the Vomero and Capo Di Monte sections where buildings were wrecked in a landslide along the Posillipo road. Occupants of the buildings were unhurt.

Gales swept the Mediterranean, and reports of isolated fishermen caught in the open sea in smaller boats came in.

Other vessels along the French, Spanish and Italian coasts were driven to refuge harbors and the British steamer Sultan went on the rocks off Quistreham, France.

Communications and transportation in France and Italy were badly disrupted.

TOKYO, Jan. 4.—Seven men were killed and twenty-six injured

"QUESTION MARK" SHATTERS RECORDS AND REMAINS ALOFT

LOS ANGELES, Calif., 4.—The giant army monoplane, Question Mark, shattered its third endurance record today and roared over southern California to amass more glory.

The world record for sustained flight, sixty-five hours, twenty-five minutes, now held by Johann Ristz and Wilhelm Zimmerman, Germans, was bettered by the Fokker tri-motored plane at 1:51 a. m. (Pacific time) today.

The fifteenth refueling of the Question Mark occurred over the El Centro Airport at 11:30 last night and 250 gallons of gasoline were transferred without spilling a drop.

The next refueling was scheduled for this morning at 7:30.

Although the army plane had surpassed the Germans' record, their plane was not refueled in the air and their mark will stand.

So far five and one-half tons of gasoline have been transferred from the two contact planes to the Question Mark without accident. Added to that was one-half ton of oil and more than 100 pounds of food, newspapers, magazines and cigars.

Total time taken up by the transfers of fuel and provisions was one hour and ten minutes.

The second record smashed by the pioneer flyers was the world's endurance mark for planes refueled in the air. The giant triple-motored Fokker equalled that mark at 7:33 p. m. (Pacific time) last night and at 8:33 had officially broken it by remaining in the air the extra hour required by international rules.

The previous mark was held by Adj. Louis Crocy and Sergt. Victor Groenen, Belgian aviators. They flew sixty hours and seven minutes June 2, 3, and 4, 1928.

FLANE WITH "MERCY CARGO" SWALLOWED BY ARCTIC SILENCE

Pilot Was Carrying Diphtheria Serum To Stricken Town

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Jan. 4.—Another drama of the north was veiled in mystery today after Capt. W. O. May, Edmonton flyer, had taken off from here carrying a "mercy cargo" of diphtheria serum for Fort Vermillion, reported stricken by an epidemic of the disease.

Captain May should have reached Fort Vermillion, 250 miles northeast of here, last night with the 500,000 units of serum but lack of facilities made it impossible to communicate with Fort Vermillion.

The flyer left Edmonton Wednesday but was forced down at McLean by minor engine trouble. Lennan by minor engine trouble. He took off from there early yesterday and flew here where he refueled his plane and set out on the last leg of his perilous flight over unbroken snow-covered wastes.

If Captain May was forced down in the barren country he would have to walk to one of the nearest trading posts.

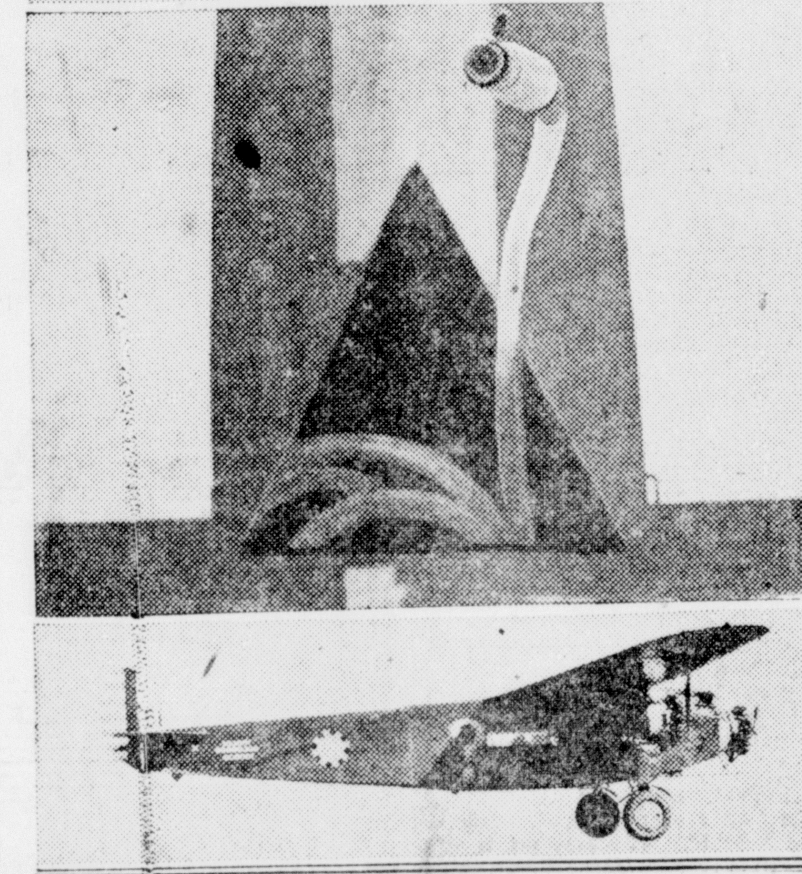

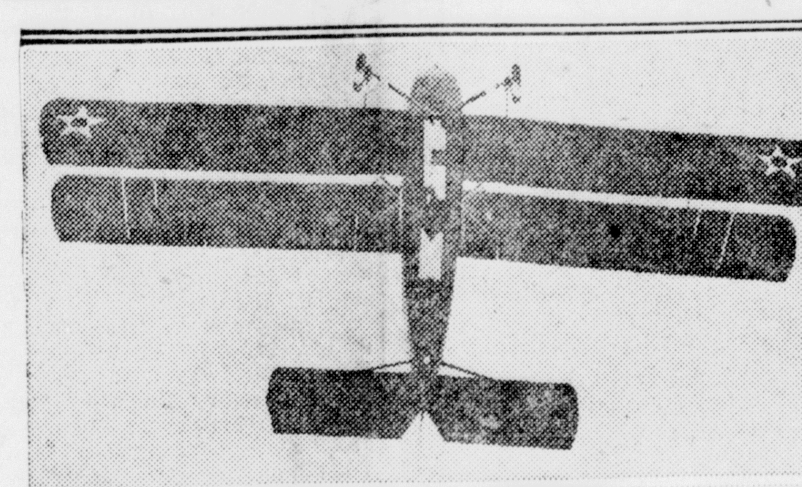

First word that the fort had been stricken by diphtheria was sent out by Little Red River December 18 by dog sled. Many days later the messenger and his dogs reached here and the word was forwarded to Edmonton by wire. Dr. H. A. Haman, said A. Logan, factor of the Hudson Bay Company at Fort Vermillion, had died of diphtheria.

Fort Vermillion is within 125 miles of the Arctic Circle and the only means of communication with cities on the telegraph wire is by dog sled.

It is possible that no word will come from May until he returns by plane, in event he was successful. Should he have reached Fort Vermillion and run out of fuel or damaged his plane, it was pointed out that several weeks might go by without word.

WESTERVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—Byron Shaw Westerville, was under arrest today on a federal indictment charging violation of the prohibition laws. Several other men here—"the dry capital of the nation"—may be involved, federal agents said.

FUELING IN AIR SERIOUS TASK

Air Corps, Reserves, and Passenger
In Question Mark During
Seven Refueling Contacts
Written Exclusively for Central
Press and The Gazette

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 4.—Refueling in midair may offer thrills to those on the ground, but to flyers in either of the two air planes involved it becomes serious business.

During seven refueling contacts prior to the official takeoff of the army's big tri-engine Question Mark, I witnessed the flyers go about the job of taking gasoline aboard at the rate of 90 gallons a minute. Not one offered a smile!

The flyers hoped to remain aloft at least until January 9. This would make it the longest duration flight ever accomplished by an airplane at least 216 hours.

If it continues to be successful, the flight will have demonstrated again the long life of engines and the wearing qualities of the human body.

Pump Gas to Wings
Major Carl Spatz, flight commander, and World War hero, assumes personal charge of the refueling in the Question Mark.

On several occasions she has been on the verge of talking, according to the prosecutor, but each time a word or look from her father would seem to frighten her and she would deny all knowledge of the missing boy.

Common Pleas Judge George A. Starn has granted the request of the prosecutor that Junior Hanna, grandson of "Nul" Arnold would be held under heavy bond.

The Hanna boy, a playmate of Melvin's said he heard one of his uncles call Melvin to the Arnold home about the hour at which Melvin was last seen.

As an aftermath of the exciting events that accompanied the arraignment and removal to county jail of the five prisoners Wednesday night Deputy Sheriff Lee Pontius late yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

Clyde Mason, Akron newspaper photographer, filed a charge, declaring Pontius had beaten him with a black jack when Sheriff Albert Jacob and Pontius rushed a crowd congregated back of the town hall.

Pontius said he mistook Mason for another man, who escaped.

HOT FEET
CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 4.—Martin Peola, 40, walked two miles in his stocking feet to break his only New Year's resolution and get a drink of liquor, his wife charged in Judge Joseph Sawicki's court today.

Mrs. Peola said she hid her husband's shoes on New Year's eve to enable him to carry out his pledge to stop drinking. But New Year's Day he went out in his stocking feet and came back intoxicated.

He was sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse.

TO START CAMPAIGN TO DRY UP CAPITAL
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A ten-week campaign to "dry up" the nation's capital will be started here Sunday.

All pastors have been asked by the national united committee for law enforcement to aid in the drive to make "Washington an example and encouragement to the cities of the nation."

The drive was considered several weeks ago at the annual meeting of the committee whereat former Governor Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania demanded that President Coolidge order district commissioners to submit a list of speakeasies, close them or lose their jobs.

"MOTHER MAC HREE" JOINS SON IN DEATH
CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for a mother who inspired the song about which an entire nation has sung—"Mother MacHree."

Mrs. Nannie Ball, 72, who died yesterday at Beechurst, Long Island, and who is credited with being the mother immortalized in that song will be laid to rest in a grave beside that of her son, Ernest R. Ball, composer of the classic.

Just a year before Ball, native Cleveland, died, in May of 1927, his mother sat in a box in a downtown theater here and heard her son sing the song to her from across the footlights.

And for twenty months after the son's death until her own death this week, Mrs. Ball would hum the tune of the song and comment to herself and close friends that with her son's death the greatest thing in her life had passed out, according to Miss Ruth Ball, her granddaughter, and daughter of the classic.

ORRVILLE YOUTH IS SOUGHT IN CITIES- HOLD BOOTLEGGERS

Five Suspects Will Again
Be Quizzed; Woman
May Talk

ORRVILLE O., Jan. 4.—Rooms of a residence in East Cleveland were ransacked by detectives early today and their occupants questioned in a search for new clues to the whereabouts of Melvin Horst, missing four-year-old Orrville boy.

The house in Cleveland is occupied by a relative of the five persons held, and his wife and two children.

The search revealed nothing of significance and the man said that he had seen none of his Orrville relatives for eight mo.

Orrville authorities planned again to question the five suspects held, Elias "Nul" Arnold, his sons William and Arthur, his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy McHenry and her husband Bascom McHenry.

County Prosecutor Walter Mourey, for the first time, today expressed belief that the missing boy still is alive. He had clung to the theory that the boy was killed.

Search for the boy was being carried on in Columbus, Akron, Cleveland and Detroit today on the theory that he had been secreted in some of those cities by persons connected with an inter-city bootlegging ring which had a terminal in Orrville.

Two men who are known to have had a connection with the ring were held in county jail at Wooster today while William J. Rober, deputy marshal and Detective John Stevens checked up on stories they told.

One made an auto trip to Chillicothe shortly after the Horst boy disappeared, but when questioned and after the boy's disappearance, neglected to tell of the trip in describing his activities.

The other is reported to have told one of his intimates that he saw Bascom McHenry and his wife in an auto driving toward the Crownhill Cemetery on the night the boy vanished.

It is upon Mrs. McHenry that Prosecutor Mourey is placing his hopes for helpful information.

On several occasions she has been on the verge of talking, according to the prosecutor, but each time a word or look from her father would seem to frighten her and she would deny all knowledge of the missing boy.

Common Pleas Judge George A. Starn has granted the request of the prosecutor that Junior Hanna, grandson of "Nul" Arnold would be held under heavy bond.

RUM REVENGE?

Roy Horst, above, city marshal of Orrville, O., and uncle of the missing Melvin Horst, four, whose disappearance has stirred the Ohio town, is believed by police to be the person aimed at in the supposed kidnapping of the boy, Horst, in his capacity as marshal, has been active against alleged bootleggers.

Armed with a mass of circumstantial evidence, the state laid the groundwork of its case Thursday afternoon and Friday morning against Gilbert Cooper, 49, Cedarville, on trial for first degree murder in Common Pleas Court for the slaying of Caleb Hitchcock, 23, Cedarville, last November 24.

The trial is moving forward speedily but nothing has developed to throw new light on the tragedy.

Because of illness of Sheriff Olmer Tate, whose testimony is regarded as an important link in the state's chain of evidence, the trial was interrupted for more than an hour Friday morning and the jury was excused while the attorneys and Miss Elsie Canby, court stenographer, took a deposition from the sheriff at the jail residence, where he is confined with a severe attack of grip.

The sheriff's testimony of events for three years ago, the shooting was expected to be read to the jury when the trial resumed Friday afternoon.

The court room was crowded Thursday afternoon and again Friday morning with Cedarville and Cedarville Twp. residents, many of whom were acquainted with the slain youth.

Testimony of a gun expert, the state's witness who was called Friday morning, featured the morning session. The firearms expert, E. P. Rockwell, Cincinnati, O., who has made firearms his hobby and study for twenty years, was connected with the Pinkerton National Detective Agency for ten years, serving as an operative for several years and for three years as assistant superintendent of the agency. More recently he has free lanced as a private detective.

His testimony was with regard to an examination made of the Stevens, twelve gauge pump gun, from which the three shots were fired by Cooper which are said to have killed the Hitchcock. Previous witnesses had testified that the shots were fired at a distance of seventy-two feet. The witness declared that the nature of the slain boy's wounds indicated that the shooting occurred at a distance at least greater than sixty feet.

Evidence had heretofore been introduced that the youth's body was literally peppered with shot and the expert pointed out that at seventy-two feet the mass of shot would scatter uniformly, and that the solid ball effect of shots fired at closer range would be broken up and not evidenced itself from the larger distance.

Nine state's witnesses were examined at the Thursday afternoon session and the witness stand by the slain youth, second me subdued him.

Gardner is serving two sentences—one of twenty-four years for the holdup of a drugstore on Aug. 14, 1927, and the other—nineteen years—for the shooting of Patrolman Adolph Jindras a few days later when Jindras sought to arrest him. He was admitted to the pen in October, 1927.

He declared that his son, outdistanced him in the chase after Cooper which resulted when the alleged slayer started to run. He asserted that Caleb was in the act of climbing a wire partition fence and had placed both hands on top of the barbed wire preparatory to climbing over when Cooper, standing near a tree on the other side, fired three shots in rapid succession from a repeating shotgun he carried.

The youth, he said, fell backward at the first shot with his arms upraised. Running to his side, the

VESSEL SINKS WITH 27 LOST

MAUKID, Jan. 4.—The steamship Malakoff sank off Mahon Minorca Island, today in a storm and twenty-seven of her crew were lost. Six were saved.

The Malakoff was driven on the rocks off Mahon last night when the lighthouse became obscured in rain and fog. The crew, asleep in their bunks, had little chance to escape as the vessel sank within seven minutes.

It was apparent only the watch managed to clear the distressed vessel.

LEARN 562 DIE FROM CHOLERA

BOMBAY, Jan. 4.—A virulent cholera epidemic is raging in Travancore state, and 562 deaths occurred during the last week in December, it was learned today.

During the past four months, 7,880 have died from the disease, among 14,000 who were stricken.

HERRICK ABLE TO GO ABOUT ESTATE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—Myron T. Herrick, U. S. ambassador to France, had improved to such an extent from a sudden attack of bronchitis suffered last Tuesday that he was able to be about his country estate near here today.

Herrick's condition was reported much better by his physicians. He was stricken with bronchitis while recovering from influenza.

FUELING IN AIR SERIOUS TASK

In Question Mark During
Seven Refueling Contacts
Written Exclusively for Central
Press and The Gazette

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 4.—Refueling in midair may offer thrills to those on the ground, but to flyers in either of the two air-planes involved it becomes serious business.

During seven refueling contacts prior to the official takeoff of the army's big tri-engine Question Mark, I witnessed the flyers go about the job of taking gasoline aboard at the rate of 50 gallons a minute. Not one offered a smile!

The flyers hoped to remain aloft at least until January 9. This would make it the longest duration flight ever accomplished by an airplane—at least 216 hours.

If it continues to be successful, the flight will have demonstrated again the long life of engines and the wearing qualities of the human body.

Major Carl Spatz, flight commander, and World War hero, assumes personal charge of the refueling in the Question Mark.

TO START CAMPAIGN TO DRY UP CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A ten-week campaign to "dry up" the nation's capital will be started here Sunday.

All pastors have been asked by the national united committee for law enforcement to aid in the drive to make "Washington an example and encouragement to the cities of the nation."

The drive was considered several weeks ago at the annual meeting of the committee whereat former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania demanded that President Coolidge order district commissioners to submit a list of speakeasies, close them or lose their jobs.

KING GEORGE STILL HOLDING GROUND

LONDON, Jan. 4.—King George held the ground today he has gained during several days of slow but steady improvement.

"MOTHER MAC HREE" JOINS SON IN DEATH

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for a mother who inspired the song about which an entire nation has sung—"Mother MacHree."

Mrs. Nannie Ball, 72, who died yesterday at Beechurst, Long Island, and who is credited with being the mother immortalized in that song, will be laid to rest in a grave beside that of her son, Ernest B. Ball, composer of the classic.

Just a year before Ball, native Cleveland, died, in May of 1927, his mother sat in a box in a downtown theater here and heard her son sing the song to her from across the footlights.

And for twenty months after the son's death until her own death this week, Mrs. Ball would hum the tune of the song and comment to herself and close friends that with her son's death the greatest thing in her life had passed out, according to Miss Ruth Ball, her granddaughter, and daughter of the

ORRVILLE YOUTH IS SOUGHT IN CITIES- HOLD BOOTLEGGERS

Five Suspects Will Again Be Quizzed; Woman May Talk

ORRVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—Rooms of a residence in East Cleveland were ransacked by detectives early today and their occupants questioned in a search for new clues to the whereabouts of Melvin Horst, missing four-year-old Orrville boy.

The house in Cleveland is occupied by a relative of the five persons held, and his wife and two children.

The search revealed nothing of significance and the man said that he had seen none of his Orrville relatives for eight mo.

Orrville authorities planned again to question the five suspects held, Elias "Nul" Arnold, his sons William and Arthur, his daughter, Mrs. Dorothy McHenry and her husband Bascom McHenry.

County Prosecutor Walter Moukey, for the first time, today expressed belief that the missing boy still is alive. He had clung to the theory that the boy was killed.

Search for the boy was being carried on in Columbus, Akron, Cleveland and Detroit today on the theory that he had been secreted in some one of those cities by persons connected with an inter-city bootlegging ring which had a terminal in Orrville.

Two men who are known to have had a connection with the ring were held in county jail at the West today while William J. Roher, deputy marshal and Detective John Stevens checked up on stories they told.

One made an auto trip to Chillicothe shortly after the Horst boy disappeared, but when questioned and after the boy's disappearance, neglected to tell of the trip in describing his activities.

The other is reported to have told one of his intimates that he saw Bascom McHenry and his wife in an auto driving toward the Crownhill Cemetery on the night the boy vanished.

It is upon Mrs. McHenry that Prosecutor Moukey is placing his hopes for helpful information.

On several occasions she has been on the verge of talking, according to the prosecutor, but each time a word or look from her father would seem to frighten her and she would deny all knowledge of the missing boy.

Common Pleas Judge George A. Starn has granted the request of the prosecutor's that Junior Hanna, grandson of "Nul" Arnold would be held under heavy bond.

The Hanna boy, a playmate of Melvin's said he heard one of his uncles call Melvin to the Arnold home about the hour at which Melvin was last seen.

As an aftermath of the exciting events that accompanied the arraignment and removal to county jail of the five prisoners Wednesday night Deputy Sheriff Lee Pontius last yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

Clyde Mason, Akron newspaper photographer, filed the charge, claiming Pontius had beaten him with a black jack when Sheriff Albert Jacob and Pontius rushed a crowd congregated back of the town hall.

Pontius said he mistook Mason for another man, who escaped.

HOT FEET

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 4.—Martin Peola, 40, walked two miles in his stocking feet to break his only New Year's resolution and get a drink of liquor, his wife charged in Judge Joseph Sawicki's court today.

Mrs. Peola said she hid her husband's shoes on New Year's eve to enable him to carry out his pledge to stop drinking. But New Year's Day he went out in his stocking feet and came back intoxicated.

He was sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse.

RUM REVENGE?

Roy Horst, above, city marshal of Orrville, O., and uncle of the missing Melvin Horst, four, whose disappearance has stirred the Ohio town, is believed by police to be the person aimed at in the supposed kidnapping of the boy Horst, in his capacity as marshal, has been active against alleged bootleggers.

OHIO PEN TAPE BANDIT BEATS GUARD ON HEAD

Attacks Officer On Being Taken To Solitary Cell

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY, COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Arthur Gardiner, alias Arthur Schroeder, Cleveland's notorious "tape" bandit, attacked Harold Whitstone, assistant night captain here, with an iron roller last midnight but Whitstone was saved by another convict.

Whitstone said he was removing Gardiner to the solitary confinement cell for an infraction of the rules when Gardiner whipped the roller and leaped upon him.

Alex Kish, serving life from West Lodi, O., for the murder of Mrs. Katherine Myers, 66, came to Whitstone's aid. Kish was received here in February, 1915.

Whitstone said he decided to remove Gardiner to "solitary" when the young convict caused a disturbance by yelling and cursing.

Gardiner is 29 years old. As Whitstone and Gardiner approached the solitary cell block Gardiner drew the roller—a circular piece of iron used in the prison cotton mill—and struck Whitstone on the head.

Gardiner then tried to grab my gun," Whitstone said, "but Kish leaped into the fray and helped me subdue him."

Kish, a trusty, is caretaker of the solitary cells.

Gardiner was placed in a cell and Whitstone went to the prison hospital for treatment.

Gardiner is serving two sentences—one of twenty-four years for the holdup of a drugstore on Aug. 14, 1927, and the other—nineteen years—for the shooting of Patrolman Adolph Jindra a few days later when Jindra sought to arrest him. He was admitted to the pen in October, 1927.

VESSEL SINKS WITH 27 LOST

MADRID, Jan. 4.—The steamship Malakoff sank off Mahon Minorca Island, today in a storm and twenty-seven of her crew were lost. Six were saved.

The Malakoff was driven on the rocks off Mahon last night when the lighthouse became obscured in rain and fog. The crew, asleep in their bunks, had little chance to escape as the vessel sank within seven minutes.

It was apparent only the watch managed to clear the distressed vessel.

LEARN 562 DIE FROM CHOLERA

BOMBAY, Jan. 4.—A virulent cholera epidemic is raging in Travancore state, and 562 deaths occurred during the last week in December, it was learned today.

During the past four months, 7,880 have died from the disease, among 14,000 who were stricken.

ARMS EXPERT AMONG WITNESSES FRIDAY AT MURDER HEARING

Sheriff Tate, Sick, Testifies At Home; Crowds Attend

Armed with a mass of circumstantial evidence, the state laid the groundwork of its case Thursday afternoon and Friday morning against Gilbert Cooper, 49, Cedarville, on trial for first degree murder in Common Pleas court for the slaying of Caleb Hitchcock, 23, Cedarville, last November 24.

The trial is moving forward speedily but nothing has developed to throw new light on the tragedy.

Because of illness of Sheriff Ohmer Tate, whose testimony is regarded as an important link in the state's chain of evidence, the trial was interrupted for more than an hour Friday morning and the jury was excused while the attorneys and Miss Elsie Canby, court stenographer, took a deposition from the sheriff at the jail residence, where he is confined with a severe attack of grip.

The sheriff's testimony of events which followed the shooting was expected to be read to the jury when the trial was resumed Friday afternoon.

The court room was crowded Thursday afternoon and again Friday morning with Cedarville and Cedarville Twp. residents, many of whom were acquainted with the slain youth.

Testimony of a gun expert, the twelfth state's witness, who was called Friday morning, featured the morning session. The fire arms expert, E. P. Rockwell, Cincinnati, O., who has made firearms his hobby and study for twenty years, was connected with the Pinkerton National Detective Agency for ten years, serving as an operative for several years and for three years as assistant superintendent of the agency. More recently he has free lanced as a private detective.

His testimony was with regard to an examination made of the Stevens, twelve gauge pump gun, from which the three shots were fired by Cooper, which are said to have killed Hitchcock. Previous witnesses had testified the shots were fired at a distance of seventy-two feet. The witness declared that the nature of the slain boy's wounds indicated that the shooting occurred at a distance at least greater than sixty feet.

Evidence had heretofore been introduced that the youth's body was literally peppered with shot and the expert pointed out that at seventy-two feet the mass of shot would scatter uniformly, and that the solid ball effect of shots fired at closer range would be broken up and not evidenced itself from the larger distance.

Nine state's witnesses were examined on the Thursday afternoon session and Wilbur Hitchcock, father of the slain youth, second person called to the witness stand by the prosecution, offered the principal testimony.

He revealed that he had had trouble with Cooper a year ago, that he had ordered him off his farm and that Cooper had made certain threats against him.

Hitchcock, said to be the only eye-witness of the shooting, testified that as he and his son were driving past the Jesse Townsley farm on which they had set traps along the north fork of Massie's Creek to catch small fur-bearing animals, they saw Cooper tampering with them and left their car.

He declared that his son out-distanced him in the chase after Cooper which resulted when the alleged slayer started to run. He asserted that Caleb was in the act of climbing a wire partition fence and had placed both hands on top of the barbed wire preparatory to climbing over when Cooper, standing from a tree on the other side, fired three shots in rapid succession from a repeating shotgun he carried.

The youth, he said, fell backward at the first shot with his arms upraised. Running to his side, the father said he ascertained that he was dead and then summoned aid from the nearest neighbor, James Studevant.

Recounting the story of events leading up to the shooting, the elder Hitchcock said the entire family had spent the afternoon in Springfield. Upon their return, Hitchcock and his son started for the Townsley farm to set some more traps when the noticed Cooper walking along the creek. They had been given permission by Curry McElroy, tenant on the farm, to trap on the property, he said.

After driving down the road a short distance they returned and the father said they saw Cooper pick up several traps, shake the water off and place them in his pocket. They left their car and started toward Cooper, who began running away he said. Hitchcock testified that he could not keep pace with his son. He said that he picked up a club but that his son was unarmed, having left a shot gun in their auto after an unsuccessful effort to have it repaired in Springfield earlier in the afternoon.

The court, on cross-examination, ruled out questions by Attorney F. L. Johnson, defense counsel regarding alleged drinking of intoxicating liquor by Caleb Hitchcock. The father's answer to the question as to whether his son and himself had been drinking the afternoon of the murder when they visited Springfield was admitted, however. He denied that either had had anything to drink.

The first witness of the afternoon was George Wheeler, Xenia photographer, who identified eight views of scenes he had taken surrounding the location of the shooting.

Other witnesses called during the course of the afternoon were: James Studevant, Columbus Pike to whose home Hitchcock rushed for help; Axel Studevant, his son; Dr. M. I. Marsh, Cedarville, who testified to the manner of the shot wounds; H. A. McLean, Cedarville marshal; Curry McElroy, near Cedarville, tenant on the Townsley farm, who said that the Hitchcocks had permission from him to trap but that Cooper did not; M. C. Nagley, Cedarville undertaker, who had charge of the body and Alva Leach Cedarville, Dr. Marsh testified the youth's death was caused by loss of blood from the wounds.

Alva Leach declared on the witness stand that he had a conversation with Cooper in a Cedarville pool room two nights before the shooting occurred. He said he asked Cooper, with whom he is acquainted, what luck he had had trapping. Cooper is said to have replied that it was not so good, but that "someone has been stealing my traps and some nice evening I intend to put my gun over my arm and get him." The witnesses said Cooper mentioned no names.

The two other witnesses heard Friday morning in addition to the court expert were Coroner Frank M. Chambliss, who viewed the body, and Albert Harris, Cedarville, who said he was walking along the road near where the shooting took place and heard three shots fired in rapid succession.

Opening statements of opposing counsel were given when the state opened its case Thursday afternoon. Prosecutor J. C. Marshall made the statement in behalf of the state and Attorney Johnson told the jury what the defense expected its testimony to show.

Cooper will take the witness stand in his own defense, Attorney Johnson said. The defense may get under way late Friday, although eleven more state witnesses are slated for the witness stand. The defense has subpoenaed sixteen witnesses, most of whom are character witnesses.

Cooper is planning his hopes to escape conviction on a plea that he shot in self-defense. His defense will be that he shot without premeditation when young Hitchcock, whom he claims was armed with a club, followed him.

Attorney Johnson, in his opening statement pictured the youth as six feet, four inches tall, weighing nearly 200 pounds, advancing upon the 145-pound Cooper in a menacing manner. He said the defense expected to show that as the boy ran at top speed to overtake Cooper, he threw off a heavy sheepskin coat to make better speed and that he ignored Cooper's warning that he would shoot as he tried to climb the wire fence.

Prosecutor J. C. Marshall is being assisted in the prosecution by his brother and law partner, Attorney L. T. Marshall.

Cooper's wife and two sons, aged 17 and 11, are with him in court. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hitchcock, parents of the slain youth, and their three children, Beatie, 8, Doris, 5, and Mavis, 2 1/2, are also attending the trial.

Woman's Club Enjoys First 1929 Meeting

SOUNDING the keynote for many delightful meetings in prospect for the year, was the first meeting of the Woman's Club for 1929 at the home of Mrs. Mary Kinney, E. Second St., Thursday afternoon.

The program was opened by Mrs. Lawrence Shields, president of the club, who delivered her annual address, revealing the outlook for the coming year. She recalled the two centenaries that occurred during the past year, those of John Bunyan and Franz Schubert.

Mrs. Shields closed her address with three songs of the latter composer, "The Linden Tree," "The Trout," and "The O-gan Grander."

Before Mrs. Shields presented the last number, Miss Clara Allen read Wordsworth's poem, "The O-gan Grander," which enabled the members to obtain two viewpoints of this character.

Miss Margaret Moorehead accompanied Mrs. Shields' numbers at the piano. Miss Mary Little next appeared on the program, reading Mrs. Mary Little Dice's paper, "Margaret of Navarre, the first to use prose fiction as an art."

Mrs. Paul D. Espey, secretary and treasurer, gave her annual report. Mrs. Isabelle Kelly, Dayton, was a guest at the club meeting.

COLUMBUS PREPARES FOR COOPER INAUGURAL

COLUMBUS is making preparations for a big inaugural celebration January 14 when Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati is to be inducted into office as Ohio's 47th governor.

The affair is to be great state-wide celebration with the Columbus Chamber of Commerce acting as host. A committee of prominent business and professional men headed by Judge Benson W. Hough is in charge.

The program for the day includes: inaugural ceremonies at 11 o'clock in the state house with Claude Meeker, as master of ceremonies. A parade at 1 P. M., with Col. W. H. Duffy as grand marshal; public reception at 3:30 P. M.; a formal reception at 7:30 P. M. in the Senate Chamber and a press smoker at 9:30 P. M. in the Neil House.

WILL PROPOSE BOARD TO RULE STATE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Placing of the state department of education under control of a board, appointed by the governor and composed of not more than five members, will be recommended to the general assembly by the joint legislative committee on public economy.

To permit this board to appoint the director of education, the committee will propose a constitutional amendment to eliminate the present constitutional provision under which the education director is appointed by the governor for a four-year term.

NEW CATALOGER ASSUMES POSITION

Mrs. Florence Fox Black, who takes the place of Miss Irene Earl as cataloger at the Greene County District Library began her duties there Wednesday.

Mrs. Black comes to Xenia from South Charleston where she has been organizer of the Houston Memorial Library.

She will make her home at 196 E. Market St.

The chairman of the proposed new board, the committee will recommend, should be a member of the governor's cabinet.

The committee will also recommend a re-organization of the education department and the transfer to the department of the functions which have been performed by the legislative reference bureau of the state library.

Other recommendations will include transfer of the division of geological survey from the education department to Ohio State University, placing of all state examining boards in one division in the education department, and putting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Xenia under the department's supervision.

The committee will specifically recommend increased salaries for teachers at the state schools for the deaf and blind.

AN EASY WAY TO LOSE FAT

Instead of abnormal exercise or diet, they combat a cause of excess fat. They supply an element Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy. This method was discovered by research men some two decades ago. It has for 20 years been embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Millions of boxes have been taken, and almost every circle shows the results in new beauty, new health and vitality.

The formula comes in every box, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Go learn now what Marmola does for excess fat, and why. Your druggist supplies it at $1 per box. Take four tablets daily and watch the change.

DAMAGE SUIT GROWS FROM COLLISION ON SPRINGFIELD PIKE

Recalling an auto accident on the Springfield and Xenia Pike, two miles north of Xenia, December 2, 1928, Earl H. Orndorf, Waynesville, who is employed in Dayton, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court demanding damages totalling $2,428.66, against J. B. Stiles, 916 S. Limestone St., Springfield, O.

Declaring that he sustained two fractures of the skull, cuts about the head and face that will leave scars, and that he was rendered unconscious and was confined in a hospital for thirteen days, the plaintiff asks $1,500 for personal injuries.

He also asserts that his suit of clothes and coat worth $75 were ruined, medical attention has cost him $178.65 to date, repairs to his damaged auto amounted to $175 and he was damaged to the extent of $200 by loss of time.

It is charged in the petition that the accident occurred in the afternoon when the defendant, traveling toward Springfield, darted out of the line of traffic and crashed head-on into the plaintiff's car, which was being driven on the correct side of the road toward Xenia.

Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for the plaintiff.

ARTHUR LEEN DIES

Arthur E. Leen, 40, Dayton attorney, member of the firm of Murphy, Leen and Murphy, died in a Dayton hospital Friday morning, following five days' illness of pneumonia, following influenza.

Mr. Leen was well known in Xenia particularly through his prominence in Knights of Columbus affairs.

Poems that Live

TO A LITTLE GIRL
Her eyes are like forget-me-nots,
So loving, kind and true;
Her lips are like a pink sea-shell
Just as the sun shines through.

Her hair is like the waving grain
In summer's golden light;
And, best of all, her little soul
Is, like a lily, white.

FRAZER NOMINATED FOR SECOND TERM

C. S. FRAZER

President Coolidge sent to the United States senate Friday the nomination of Clarence S. Frazer for re-appointment as postmaster of Xenia, according to dispatches received from Washington, D. C.

Postmaster Frazer's first term of four years expired last December 12 and it is believed that he is unopposed for appointment for a second term.

He was appointed acting postmaster December 1, 1924 when the Republican party returned to power, succeeding Harry E. Rice, Xenia newspaper publisher. His official appointment became effective December 12, 1924.

All members of the local Legion post are urged to be present. Members and officers of the Legion posts of the other three counties will also attend and complete plans for membership organization.

When your child is sleepless.

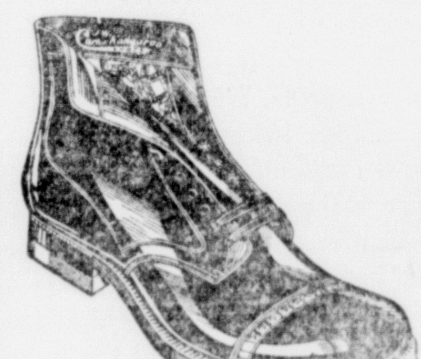

This remedy rarely fails.

Constipation is a common cause of sleeplessness, both in children and adults. When a child is wakeful and fretful, see if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour, irritating waste. Simply give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have no more anxiety over the child's excitability and wakefulness at night. Children love this harmless "fruit" laxative. It banishes biliousness and constipation, regulates the bowels and insures pure blood, a clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and helps to build a strong constitution.

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitations.

Mrs. Lillian H. Howard, wife of Col. H. Maxwell Howard, Dayton, paper manufacturer, died Thursday afternoon in the Howard apartment in New York City. She was the mother of Howell H. Howard, Dayton, and of Countess John Alexander and Perdicus John.

Col. C. V. Burton, superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home, was guest of honor and principal speaker at the meeting of the Noonday Club, Dayton, Friday. He talked informally on affairs and conduct of the local institution.

Miss Mary Gallagher and Mrs. Hannah Ruddick are ill at their home on Center St. with grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Johnson, Mount Vernon, Ind., are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Ungard, N. King St.

COLUMBUS PREPARES FOR COOPER INAUGURAL

COLUMBUS is making preparations for a big inaugural celebration January 14 when Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati is to be inducted into office as Ohio's 47th governor.

The affair is to be great state-wide celebration with the Columbus Chamber of Commerce acting as host. A committee of prominent business and professional men headed by Judge Benson W. Hough is in charge.

The program for the day includes: inaugural ceremonies at 11 o'clock in the state house with Claude Meeker, as master of ceremonies. A parade at 1 P. M. with Col. W. H. Duffy as grand marshal; formal reception at 3:30 P. M.; a formal reception at 7:30 P. M. in the Senate Chamber and a dress smoker at 9:30 P. M. in the Neil House.

WILL PROPOSE BOARD TO RULE STATE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Placing of the state department of education under control of a board, appointed by the governor and composed of not more than five members, will be recommended to the general assembly by the joint legislative committee on public education.

To permit this board to appoint the director of education, the committee will propose a constitutional amendment to eliminate the present constitutional provision under which the education director is appointed by the governor for a four-year term.

The chairman of the proposed new board, the committee will recommend, should be a member of the governor's cabinet.

The committee will also recommend a reorganization of the education department and the transfer to the department of the functions which have been performed by the legislative reference bureau of the state library.

Other recommendations will include transfer of the division of geological survey from the education department to Ohio State University, placing of all state examining boards in one division in the education department, and putting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's Home at Xenia under the department's supervision.

The committee will specifically recommend increased salaries for teachers at the state schools for the deaf and blind.

NEW CATALOGER ASSUMES POSITION

Mrs. Florence Fox Black, who takes the place of Miss Irene Earl as cataloger at the Greene County District Library began her duties there Wednesday.

Mrs. Black comes to Xenia from South Charleston where she has been organizer of the Houston Memorial Library.

She will make her home at 106 E. Market St.

AN EASY WAY TO LOSE FAT

Instead of abnormal exercise or diet, they combat a cause of excess fat. They supply an element Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy. This method was discovered by research men some two decades ago. It has for 20 years been embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Millions of boxes have been taken, and almost every circle shows the results in new beauty, new health and vitality.

The formula comes in every box, also the scientific reasons for results. Savers have no fear of harm. Go learn now what Marmola does for excess fat, and why. Your druggist supplies it at $1 per box. Take four tablets daily and watch the change.

DAMAGE SUIT GROWS FROM COLLISION ON SPRINGFIELD PIKE

Recalling an auto accident on the Springfield and Xenia Pike, two miles north of Xenia, December 2, 1928, Earl H. Orndorf, Waynesville, who is employed in Dayton, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court demanding damages totalling $2,428.65, against J. B. Stiles, 916 S. Limestone St., Springfield, O.

Declaring that he sustained two fractures of the skull, cuts about the head and face that will leave scars, and that he was rendered unconscious and was confined in a hospital for thirteen days, the plaintiff asks $1,500 for personal injuries.

He also asserts that his suit of clothes and coat worth $75 were ruined, medical attention has cost him $178.55 to date, repairs to his damaged auto amounted to $475 and he was damaged to the extent of $200 by loss of time.

It is charged in the petition that the accident occurred in the afternoon when the defendant, traveling toward Springfield, darted out of the line of traffic and crashed head-on into the plaintiff's car, which was being driven on the correct side of the road toward Xenia. Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for the plaintiff.

POEMS THAT LIVE

TO A LITTLE GIRL
Her eyes are like forget-me-nots,
So loving, kind and true;
Her lips are like a pink sea-shell
Just as the sun shines through.

Her hair is like the waving grain
In summer's golden light;
And, best of all, her little soul
Is, like a lily, white.

FRAZER NOMINATED FOR SECOND TERM

C. S. FRAZER

President Coolidge sent to the nomination of Clarence S. Frazer for reappointment as postmaster of Xenia, according to dispatches received from Washington, D. C.

Postmaster Frazer's first term of four years expired last December 12 and it is believed that he is opposed for appointment for a second term.

He was appointed acting postmaster December 1, 1924 when the Republican party returned to power, succeeding Harry E. Rice, Xenia newspaper publisher. His official appointment became effective December 12, 1924.

All members of the local Legion post are urged to be present. Members and officers of the Legion posts of the other three counties will also attend and complete plans for membership organization.

When your child is sleepless.

This remedy rarely fails.

Constipation is a common cause of sleeplessness, both in children and adults. When a child is wakeful and fretful, see if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour, irritating waste. Simply give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have no more anxiety over the child's excitability and wakefulness at night. Children love this harmless "fruit" laxative. It banishes biliousness and constipation, regulates the bowels and insures pure blood, a clear complexion, joyous spirit, a keen brain, healthy appetite and helps to build a strong constitution.

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitations.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S ANOINTED AND HIS TASK—To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn. To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called Trees of righteousness. The planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.—Isa. 61:2 and 3.

THAT NEW FARM AID BILL

The third McNary-Haugen bill for the relief of agriculture is now before Congress in such form that approval from three sources which have brought about the defeat of its predecessors is virtually assured, in the opinion of Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, co-author of the measure.

The elimination of the equalization fee and other changes have set aside the points of opposition heretofore held by President Coolidge, certain Department of Agriculture experts, and agricultural economists, Senator McNary holds in predicting the passage of the measure at the present session.

The chief feature of the bill, as it stands today, he explains "provides a revolving loan fund of $300,000,000 for making loans to stabilization corporations for handling the crop surplus. It is not proposed to dispose of crop surpluses at a loss to be paid out of the United States Treasury."

The bill now calls for a Federal Farm Board of 12 members to be appointed by the President, which would keep constant watch over farm and crop conditions and control the loan fund. Of the $300,000,000, the board would loan $225,000,000 to the corporations formed by farm bodies for buying and storing seasonal surpluses until they could be sold advantageously on the domestic or foreign markets. Another $25,000,000 would be loaned for the building of warehouses and other physical facilities, all protected by mortgages. The remaining $50,000,000 would be loaned to farm co-operative associations for advances to their individual members on crops and for expanding and strengthening their organizations.

The bill Senator McNary says, has received the scrutiny of Department of Agriculture experts, and he anticipates no opposition from that quarter. He believes it will have the approval of most agricultural economists, whose opposition was one of the heaviest handicaps the original measure had to face. The question of constitutionality has apparently been met. President Coolidge's objections were principally to the so-called equalization fee and to the method of selecting the farm board. The equalization fee has been abandoned and the appointment of the board brought within constitutional limits.

Whether the bill can be put through this session of congress or Hoover must call a special session after March 4 in accordance with his campaign proposal are questions of much interest yet to be decided.

MAKING MEN HANDSOMER

If you are a prohibitionist—or if you are not—you may be interested to learn that the dry regime is making the American male more handsome. At least that's the latest argument put forward by Dr. James Doran, national prohibition commissioner. Says Dr. Doran:

"Under prohibition the average man has more money to spend, and since he cannot spend it legally for liquor, he spends it for shaves, facials, haircuts and manicures."

The absence of a red nose, bloodshot or deadened eyes and a dissipated appearance also helps some.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

CIVILIZING

The king of Afghanistan, in the heart of Asia, has been in Europe getting some western and presumably Christian ideas. He has also been doing a little shopping, buying some of the things that are most popular among Christian nations. He bought 53,500 rifles, 106 heavy field guns, some machine guns, six tanks, and five armored cars. Thus does civilization spread across the world.

HOPE

Curious things happen in this prohibition country of ours. A Milwaukee firm received the other day the largest shipment of Bohemian hops to pass through the custom house since we have had what passes for prohibition. The shipment amounted to 115,000 pounds. The hops are baled, each bale weighing 660 pounds. This activity in the hop market represents a new effort of the near-beer makers to produce beer closer to the pre-war original and still stay within the terms of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead enforcement law.

NOT A CURE

We very often confuse a change in condition with a cure. Or we confuse a mild remedy with a positive discontinuance of a bad situation. A bill will be introduced at the next session of the Ohio legislature to turn back to their home states all feeble minded and insane persons who are found in Ohio. This would be a helpful measure as far as one state is concerned and it would save money, but it would not be reaching the root of the great scourge of feeble mindedness and insanity. The prevention of marriage among the unfit, a new and sane approach to the subject of eugenics, a careful attention to human stock—these are the fundamental matters in the problem of feeble mindedness.

MONKEY LAWS

The new Arkansas law that fines and fires teachers "who teach any theory that man is descended or descended from lower animals" is more serious than it sounds. The movement against the teaching of the theory of evolution is not confined to the three states of Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas which have laws of this sort. It is nationwide. The fundamentalist movement to prevent the teaching of evolution in American schools is spreading steadily.

Man no more clearly demonstrates his remaining likeness to his lower animal ancestors than by his fear to make an earnest search for the truth. The fear of science, the fear of learning is a hold over from barbarism and savagery and all that went before.

The Diary
of a
New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK—The theories on why the current theatre season has reached its lowest level for poor business still pour in. The argument advanced by M. J. Holmesdale in the World that the sitch-ee-ay-shun was the result of the terrible traffic in New York has been snubbed by the editor of one of the theatre industry's better weeklies. The editor of one of t.t.b.w.'s says that so long as New York contains 80 or more theatres with not enough good shows to draw the particular play-goers so long will the losses pile up.

A Disaster

Mr. Philip Goodman's amazing losses on his ill-fated "Rainbow" are difficult to understand. "Rainbow" contained, among other things, an enchanting score and cast of reliable gorgeous scenic effects and a virile book. First-night hindrances, however, left a trying impression on the premiere attendees, and although the critics were almost unanimous in approving the attraction, "the word of mouth" advertising probably did more to damage it. Business never was good, and in less than a month the production perished.

Anecdote

As a boy, Kealey Allen, the critic, used to hang around the great and near-great of the Theatre World. The late Charles Frohman was then the king of the theatre field. One day he said to Allen:

"Run over to the Broadway theatre and see how the show looks."

When Kealey returned, Frohman asked:

"Well, how many people were in the house?"

"I can lick the three of 'em," was the reply.

Gag

Jack Benny, vaudevillian, brings back the one about the student who was on the university football team, but was never allowed to participate in any of the games for three years, being on the bench all that time. One day the captain gathered the eleven in the clubhouse and warned them that they had to win the game.

"It is imperative," he yelled; "our good name is at stake."

Then he looked around and observed the lad who warned the bench for three years sitting in a box of resin.

"What the hell's the big idea, sitting in that resin?" he asked.

"You don't think I want to slip off that bench in such an important game, do you?" was the retort.

Believe It Or Not

It is an alleged true story, to hear one of the town's most prolific exploiters tell it. "I swear," he said, as he raised his right arm, "that it is on the up-and-up, and is not a press stunt."

The story: A young girl entered a popular restaurant in the Forties recently and occupied a table for two, at which also sat a kindly-looking old woman.

The latter's hands trembled as she lifted the salt shaker and other things. The young girl was sympathetic, passing this or that gadget.

The old lady's purse, which was on the edge of the table, dropped to the floor. The young girl reached down to pick it up. As she did, the old lady dropped something into her coffee cup. Two women sitting across the way observed the gesture and wondered.

A few minutes later, when the girl left the place, the old woman followed. At the street corner the girl collapsed. The old woman dashed to her side, called the traffic officer, and excitedly said: "This is my niece. She has had another fainting spell. Please help me get her in a cab."

The two women who witnessed the pair in the restaurant had followed, and one cried: "Officer, I don't believe this person is related to this girl at all. I saw her drop something—"

But by this time the old lady had dashed down the avenue, with the officer racing after her.

In the ensuing tussle the old woman's hat and wig fell off—revealing a man!

According to the story teller, the prisoner still is in jail, although the newspapers have not been informed, "because the police are trying to keep his arrest secret, with the hope of bagging the ring leader of an alleged white slave ring."

Haw!

Eddie Cantor's father-in-law saw the Wednesday matinee of Ziegfeld's "Whoopee," and after the performance went back stage to see Eddie. The verbatim conversation follows:

Eddie—Well, pop, how did you like the show?

Father-in-law—My God, you're the best!

Eddie—I know, but isn't it a beautiful production?

Father-in-law—Production! Production! How much are you getting now?

Eddie—Five thousand dollars a week.

Father-in-law—You don't have to pay out anything for it?

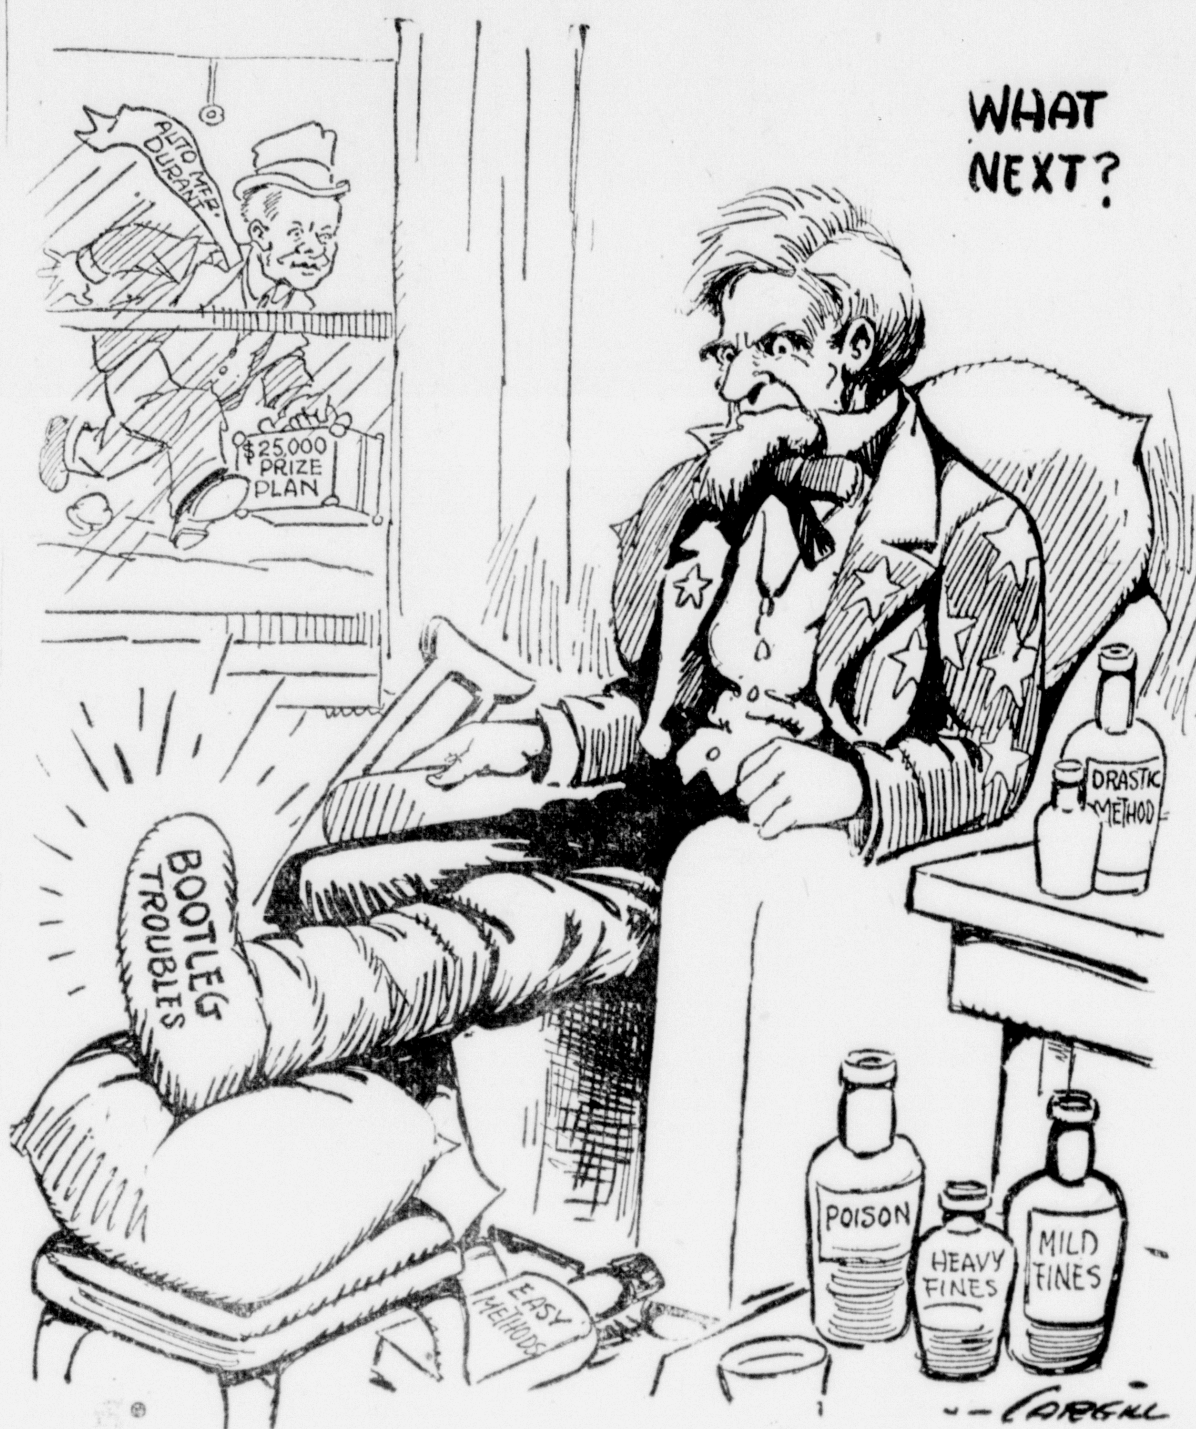

Eddie—Well, I have some expenses. For instance, laundry—

Father-in-law—I knew it wouldn't be five thousand dollars a week!

At an inquest at Hayes, England, on Albert Field, it was stated that he was run over by a truck in March 1919, and had since been under an anesthetic 110 times.

THE NATIONAL ALE-MENT

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Presumably President-elect Hoover will land back home from Latin American waters, with his cabinet slate all framed up.

G. O. P. "old guardmen" await a look at it in deep anxiety—trepidation, in fact. From its appearance they will deduce what Mr. Hoover is likely to mean to them after March 4 next.

The truth is, they augur ill. Mr. Hoover's departure for the southern hemisphere just when, as they consider, he ought to have been consulting them, is interpreted by the old guard as a bad sign.

Some guesses on Mr. Hoover's cabinet selections are:

State portfolio—Senator William E. Borah, Roland W. Boyden, Boston lawyer, known principally as America's unofficial observer of war reparations negotiations; Senator Theodore H. Burton, Charles G. Dawes, Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador to Italy, who has accompanied Mr. Hoover on his South American tour; Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium; Alanson B. Houghton, recently booted for the senate from New York; Charles Evans Hughes, ex-Senator; Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, late of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Silas Strawn, Chicago lawyer and chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward and Co. the mail order concern.

Treasury—Andrew W. Mellon, to hold on; S. Parker Gilbert, war reparations expert; Adolph C. Miller of the federal reserve board, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

War—Dwight F. Davis, to keep his present job; Hanford McNider, Iowa banker, ex-associate secretary of war and former head of the American Legion; Gen. John J. Pershing, Col. John Q. Tilton, Republican leader in the house of representatives; ex-Senator James Wadsworth of New York.

Justice—Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan ("Wild Bill") considered almost a cinch; Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

Postoffice—Harry S. New, to remain; C. Bascom Sloop, former private secretary to President Coolidge and southern Republican.

Pacific Flight Enthusiasms

Plans for the flight across the Pacific from Japan this year is arousing great enthusiasm in that country. Entries are already being received and the list promises to be a long one. Even children in the public schools are singing songs about the proposed flight and the decorations of hagioka, or battle-dresses, used in the favorite children's game at New Year, showed a Japanese aviator with the inscription "Flying across the Pacific."

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Nearly everybody, I suppose, strives to appear wiser than he really is.

But an ignorant or stupid person is usually less inclined than a more intelligent person to confess lack of information.

Since knowledge means superiority, those of us who have none to spare can't well afford to take chances on appearing ignorant.

But what makes it particularly difficult for a woefully ignorant man is that he doesn't even know just what it is permissible not to know.

Although bobbed-haired women are supposed to be life-savers for barbers in futile competition with safety razors, I find that most barbers do not like women customers.

"A man lets you alone," one barber told me, "but women go into great detail about just how they want their hair cut. Then, no matter how it's done, it doesn't quite suit them. Moreover, they don't give tips, and pay rather grudgingly."

"Death by misadventure" was the verdict returned at an inquest in Dublin, Ireland, on a sixteen-months-old child that had swallowed 26 pills containing strychnine.

Brought in Jamaica this year caused great damage.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Discolored Necks Indicate Neglect

It is not at all unusual to see a pretty, pale face betrayed by the condition and color of the neck below it. I do not know why so many women stop their beauty treatments at the chin line, but that it is so is a fact I cannot deny. And neglected necks have a way of taking revenge by simply discrediting all your efforts to appear youthful.

Early in youth, your throat begins to lose a little of the softness and whiteness of skin which is such an enviable part of the ensemble of loveliness.

If you are wise, you will not permit this condition to remain and eventually challenge your claim to loveliness. Not when three minutes a day will insure a white, pretty neck for many years to come. Every evening when you are cleansing and stimulating your face, take a little bleaching cream and run it into your neck and throat. And don't forget that there's a back as well as a front of the neck!

Rubbing a cut lemon over the throat area is another way to restore whiteness to the skin. The combination of lemon with milk is also good.

Once in a while I have questions regarding a harshness that affects the skin of neck and throat. Using a slightly stimulating washing preparation twice a day will speedily correct this condition.

A light application of cleansing cream quickly removes all danger of a "shadow" on the back of your neck. As a definite corrective measure, skin clearing cream massaged into the throat with sweeping downward movements will eradicate the "permanent" condition developing through the constant wearing of dyed furs.

One large half of pear placed on lettuce and half of peach on either side. Decorate with strips of angelica and candied cherries. Use French dressing.

Stuffed Dates

Wipe the dates carefully, and cut off one end of each with a sharp knife, making the cut about half an inch deep. Pull out the pit lengthwise. Soften about a half-pound of almond paste with a little water, and beat in a half-pound of confectioner's sugar. Divide the paste into four parts.

Flavor the first part with a little lemon rind, grated; the second with grated orange rind; the third with a few chopped cherries, the fourth with finely chopped pistachio nuts. Roll and cut each filling about three-quarter inch long and about one-half inch thick. Stuff each date lengthwise with the chosen mixture, and roll the dates in granulated sugar.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

ARE YOU AN OVERWEIGHTER? YOU OVEREAT FOR YOUR NEEDS

Why Are You Overweight?

Heretofore I have been saying that 99 times out of 100, if you are overweight, it is because you overeat for your needs. The 1% I excluded, I said might have some disturbance of the internal secretory glands. But now I am going to tell you that if you are overweight, 100 times out of 100 it is because you overeat for your needs! For I know that even if there is some disturbance of your glands, the overweight will not result unless that is true.

Fat is made from food, and food only, and it is only when there is some food beyond what the body needs for its external and internal activities that it can be deposited as fat.

I am reminded of this by a recent lecture I heard on the pituitary gland, given by Dr. Philip E. Smith, at the American Institute. (This is a little gland, the size of a large pea, part of, and at the base of the brain). He showed a picture of a white rat, whose pituitary gland had been damaged experimentally. It was enormous! In fact, you can't imagine a rat so fat as it was. Dr. Smith stated after the gland was damaged, the rat did nothing but eat and sleep. The doctor wasn't talking of overweight, and let it go at that. Added that of course disturbance of the pituitary gland was not by any means the chief cause of overweight, and let it go at that.

After the lecture, I asked Dr. Smith—who is very tall and thin—why he did not give the real cause of overweight—overeating for the needs? He answered that he believed that the pituitary disturbance was the cause in quite a number of cases and the thyroid in others, and then hereditarily had some influence, because, for instance, he himself ate enormously but he did not gain. I then asked him if that rat would have got so fat if it had not eaten all the time, and he acknowledged, with a grin, that naturally it couldn't have!

All of the glands (and other tissues of the body) can be disturbed, and markedly so, by the unbalanced diet which brings on overweight, so no doubt there is a vicious circle formed. First the unbalanced and excessive diet brings on overweight and also disturbs the glands. This glandular disturbance in turn, affects the mentality so that eating and sleeping are the chief pleasures of life. Reducing the diet and balancing it may restore the glands in these cases to normal, although medication may also be needed by this time.

However, many of my overweight followers have reported to me that they had been diagnosed as having glandular disturbance, but they were entirely cured simply by going on a balanced reducing diet, as outlined in my articles.

About sleeping: While you are reducing, you can continue to sleep all you want to. But you will find you won't need an excess amount for you lose the toxemia that causes you to be sleepy. One of the first things you will notice is your increase in mental alertness and loss of sleepiness.

Yesterday I told you that for a few days I would help those of you who wanted to reduce, and advised you to go on a liquid or semi-liquid diet for at least a day, better three days. If you missed yesterday's paper, please get it, for in that I gave directions.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

HE'S DESPERATELY IN LOVE, BUT WILL IT LAST? ASKS YOUTH

How is anyone going to tell whether the love they now feel for a person is going to last? Not many of us worry about that, do we? We wonder if the other's love for us will last. We are usually so very much in love that we are sure our affection is as deep as the fathomless sea and as permanent as the everlasting hills.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young man 22 years of age and am desperately in love with a fair lady who has been married but divorced months ago. She says she has never loved anyone as she does me. I am always waiting every morning for the postman who brings me a letter. I had a severe accident not long ago and this little lady came to my bedside at the hospital. Life would be the sweetest thing on earth if I only knew whether I would always love this charming little lady like I do now. Do you think her being married would make any difference in years to come? Please advise."

"Dear Friend Mrs. Lee: I am a stranger in your town, but was looking over the paper and found 'Lonesome Girl's' letter. All I can say is I hope she sticks to being a 'flat tire' for it sure pays in the long run. I would give a lot to meet a girl like her."

"WONDERING BOY."

I am sorry your letter could not have been answered earlier. "Wondering," I hope you decided not to send another card to the young man, as he evidently was not interested enough to answer your first.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

FORGIVING HIS ENEMY

What Turkey Gobbler said was so different from what Peter had expected his old enemy to say that Peter almost fell over backward with surprise.

Peter was touched by the bird's appeal. Who in the world would ever have supposed that fierce, independent old Turkey Gobbler would care whether people liked him or not! It only proved that one never could tell what a person was really like inside from the way he looked.

"Learn to like you?" cried the boy. "Why, I don't have to learn. I like you already."

"And really, I never meant to harm you, Turkey Gobbler, not even when I set Rover on you! I only wanted to tease you a bit, and you did look so funny running through the barnyard gobbling at the top of your lungs, with your tail spread out like a fan."

"I am sorry now that I was so mean, and just as ashamed of myself as I can be."

"Oh, pooh! Let us forget it!" Turkey Gobbler lifted up his foot for Peter to shake. "We are friends from now on, and that is enough for me."

"Just wait until I gobble the good news at that impudent dog. He will never dare chase me again if he knows that you and I are on good terms. He wants to do just as you wish him to. More than once I have said to one of my wives:

"I don't see how an animal can love a Two-Legs as much as Rover does. Why, he pays more attention to him than he does to any of his own kind."

"Only yesterday I saw Rover stop playing tag with a neighbor's dog when his master whistled." And wife said that she had noticed the same thing. But now that I am beginning to know you I don't wonder at Rover's affection for you. You do seem very pleasant."

"Thank," said Peter, a little embarrassed at hearing himself so praised. "But don't let's waste time talking about me. I want to hear all about yourself."

Turkey Gobbler bowed so low that his wattles almost dragged upon the ground.

"You flatter me," said he. "But I shall be very glad to tell you as much as I can about myself. It will not take me very long."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S ANOINTED AND HIS TASK—To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn. To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called Trees of righteousness. The planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.—Isa. 61:2 and 3.

THAT NEW FARM AID BILL

The third McNary-Haugen bill for the relief of agriculture is now before Congress in such form that approval from three sources which have brought about the defeat of its predecessors is virtually assured, in the opinion of Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, co-author of the measure.

The elimination of the equalization fee and other changes have set aside the points of opposition heretofore held by President Coolidge, certain Department of Agriculture experts, and agricultural economists, Senator McNary holds in predicting the passage of the measure at the present session.

The chief feature of the bill, as it stands today, he explains "provides a revolving loan fund of $300,000,000 for making loans to stabilization corporations for handling the crop surplus. It is not proposed to dispose of crop surpluses at a loss to be paid out of the United States Treasury."

The bill now calls for a Federal Farm Board of 12 members to be appointed by the President, which would keep constant watch over farm and crop conditions and control the loan fund. Of the $300,000,000, the board would loan $225,000,000 to the corporations formed by farm bodies for buying and storing seasonal surpluses until they could be sold advantageously on the domestic or foreign markets. Another $25,000,000 would be loaned for the building of warehouses and other physical facilities, all protected by mortgages. The remaining $50,000,000 would be loaned to farm co-operative associations for advances to their individual members on crops and for expanding and strengthening their organizations.

The bill Senator McNary says, has received the scrutiny of Department of Agriculture experts, and he anticipates no opposition from that quarter. He believes it will have the approval of most agricultural economists, whose opposition was one of the heaviest handicaps the original measure had to face.

The question of constitutionality has apparently been met. President Coolidge's objections were principally to the so-called equalization fee and to the method of selecting the farm board. The equalization fee has been abandoned and the appointment of the board brought within constitutional limits.

Whether the bill can be put through this session of Congress or Hoover must call a special session after March 4 in accordance with his campaign proposal are questions of much interest yet to be decided.

MAKING MEN HANDSOMER

If you are a prohibitionist—or if you are not—you may be interested to learn that the dry regime is making the American male more handsome. At least that's the latest argument put forward by Dr. James Doran, national prohibition commissioner. Says Dr. Doran:

"Under prohibition the average man has more money to spend, and since he cannot spend it legally for liquor, he spends it for shaves, facials, haircuts and manicures."

The absence of a red nose, bloodshot or deadened eyes and a dissipated appearance also helps some.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

CIVILIZING

The king of Afghanistan, in the heart of Asia, has been in Europe getting some western and presumably Christian ideas. He has also been doing a little shopping, buying some of the things that are most popular among Christian nations. He bought 53,500 rifles, 106 heavy field guns, some machine guns, six tanks, and five armored cars. Thus does civilization spread across the world.

HOPE

Curious things happen in this prohibition country of ours. A Milwaukee firm received the other day the largest shipment of Bohemian hops to pass through the custom house since we have had what passes for prohibition. The shipment amounted to 115,000 pounds. The hops are baled, each bale weighing 660 pounds. This activity in the hop market represents a new effort of the near-beer makers to produce beer closer to the pre-war original and still stay within the terms of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead enforcement law.

NOT A CURE

We very often confuse a change in condition with a cure. Or we confuse a mild remedy with a positive discontinuance of a bad situation. A bill will be introduced at the next session of the Ohio legislature to turn back to their home states all feeble minded and insane persons who are found in Ohio. This would be a helpful measure as far as one state is concerned and it would save money, but it would not be reaching the root of the great scourge of feeble mindedness and insanity. The prevention of marriage among the unfit, a new and sane approach to the subject of eugenics, a careful attention to human stock—these are the fundamental matters in the problem of feeble mindedness.

MONKEY LAWS

The new Arkansas law that fines and fires teachers "who teach any theory that man is descended or descended from lower animals" is more serious than it sounds. The movement against the teaching of the theory of evolution is not confined to the three states of Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas which have laws of this sort. It is national wide. The fundamentalist movement to prevent the teaching of evolution in American schools is spreading steadily.

Man no more clearly demonstrates his remaining likeness to his lower animal ancestors than by his fear to make an earnest search for the truth. The fear of science, the fear of learning is a hold over from barbarism and savagery and all that went before.

The Diary

of a

New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK—The theories on why the current theatre season has reached its lowest level for poor business still pour in. The argument advanced by M. J. Holmesdale in the World that the stich-ee-ay-shun was the result of the terrible traffic in New York has been snubbed by the editor of one of the theatre industry's better weeklies. The editor of one of t.t.t.b.w.s. says that so long as New York contains 80 or more theatres with not enough good shows to draw the particular play-goers so long will the losses pile up.

A Disaster

Mr. Philip Goodman's amazing losses on his ill-fated "Rainbow" are difficult to understand. "Rainbow" contained, among other things, an enchanting score and cast of reliable gorgeous scenic effects and a style book. First-night hindrances, however, left a trying impression on the premiere attendees, and although the critics were almost unanimous in approving the attraction, "the word of mouth" advertising probably did more to damage it. Business never was good, and in less than a month the production perished.

Anecdote

As a boy, Kelsey Allen, the critic, used to hang around the great and near-great of the Theatre World. The late Charles Frohman was then the king of the theatre field. One day he said to Allen:

"Run over to the Broadway theatre and see how the show looks."

When Kelsey returned, Frohman asked:

"Well, how many people were in the house?"

"I can lick the three of 'em," was the reply.

Gag

Jack Benny, vaudeville, bring back the one about the student who was on the university football team, but was never allowed to participate in any of the games for three years, being on the bench all that time. One day the captain gathered the eleven in the clubhouse and warned them that they had to win the game.

"It is imperative," he yelled: "our good name is at stake." Then he looked around and observed the lad who warmed the bench for three years sitting in a box of resin.

"What the hell's the big idea, sitting in that resin?" he asked. "You don't think I want to slip off that bench in such an important game, do you?" was the retort.

Believe It Or Not

It is an alleged true story, to hear one of the town's most prolific exploiters tell it. "I swear," he said, as he raised his right arm, "that it is on the up-and-up, and is not a press stunt."

The story: A young girl entered a popular restaurant in the Forties recently and occupied a table for two, at which also sat a kindly-appearing old woman. The latter's hands trembled as she lifted the salt shaker and other things. The young girl was sympathetic, passing this or that gadget. The old lady's purse, which was on the edge of the table, dropped to the floor. The young girl reached down to pick it up. As she did, the old lady dropped something into her coffee cup. Two women sitting across the way observed the gesture and wondered.

A few minutes later, when the girl left the place, the old woman followed. At the street corner the girl collapsed. The old woman dashed to her side, called the traffic officer, and excitedly said: "This is my niece. She has had another fainting spell. Please help me get her in a cab." The two women who witnessed the pair in the restaurant had followed, and one cried: "Officer, I don't believe this person is related to this girl at all. I saw her drop something—"

But by this time the old lady had dashed down the avenue, with the officer racing after her. In the ensuing tussle the old woman's hat and wig fell off—revealing a man!

According to the story teller, the prisoner still is in jail, although the newspapers have not been informed, "because the police are trying to keep his arrest secret, with the hope of bagging the ring leader of an alleged white slave ring."

Haw!

Eddie Cantor's father-in-law saw the Wednesday matinee of Ziegfeld's "Whoopee," and after the performance went back stage to see Eddie. The verbatim conversation follows:

Eddie—Well, pop, how did you like the show?

Father-in-law—My God, you're the best!

Eddie—I know, but isn't it a beautiful production?

Father-in-law—Production! Production! How much are you getting now?

Eddie—Five thousand dollars a week.

Father-in-law—You don't have to pay out anything from it?

Eddie—Well, I have some expenses. For instance, laundry—

Father-in-law—I knew it wouldn't be five thousand dollars net!

At an inquest at Hayes, England, on Albert Field, it was stated that he was run over by a truck in March, 1919, and had since been under an anesthetic 110 times.

THE NATIONAL ALE-MENT

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Presumably President-elect Hoover will land back home from Latin American waters, with his cabinet slate all framed up.

G. O. P. "old guardmen" await a look at it in deep anxiety—trepidation, in fact. From its appearance they will deduce what Mr. Hoover is likely to mean to them after March 4 next.

The truth is, they augur ill.

Mr. Hoover's departure for the southern hemisphere just when, as they consider, he ought to have been consulting them, is interpreted by the old guard as a bad sign.

Some guesses on Mr. Hoover's cabinet selections are:

State portfolio—Senator William E. Borah, Roland W. Boyden, Boston lawyer, known principally as America's unofficial observer of war reparations; E. Burton, Charles G. Dawes, Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador to Italy, who has accompanied Mr. Hoover on his South American tour; Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium; Alanson B. Houghton, recently beaten for the senate from New York; Charles Evans Hughes, ex-Senator; I. R. Learsor, of Wisconsin; Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, late of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Silas Strawn, Chicago lawyer and chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward and Co. the mail order concern.

Treasury—Andrew W. Mellon, to hold on; S. Parker Gilbert, war reparations expert; Adolph C. Miller of the federal reserve board, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

War—Dwight F. Davis, to keep his present job; Hanford MacNider, Iowa banker, ex-Assistant Secretary of war and former head of the American Legion; Gen. John J. Pershing, Col. John Q. Tilson, Republican leader in the house of representatives; ex-Senator James Wadsworth of New York.

Justice—Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan ("Wild Bill") considered almost a cinch; Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

Postoffice—Harry S. New, to remain; C. Bascom Sloop, former private secretary to President Coolidge and southern Republican.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Discolored Necks Indicate Neglect. It is not at all unusual to see a pretty, pale face betrayed by the condition and color of the neck below it. I do not know why so many women stop their beauty treatments at the chin line, but that it is so is a fact I cannot deny. And neglected necks have a way of taking revenge by simply discrediting all your efforts to appear youthful.

Early in youth, your throat begins to lose a little of the softness and whiteness of skin which is such an enviable part of the ensemble of loveliness.

If you are wise, you will not permit this condition to remain and eventually challenge your claim to loveliness. Not when three minutes a day will insure a white, pretty neck for many years to come. Every evening when you are cleansing and stimulating your face, take a little bleaching cream and run it into your neck and throat. And don't forget that there's a back as well as a front of the neck!

Rubbing a cut lemon over the throat area is another way to restore whiteness to the skin. The combination of lemon with milk is also good.

Once in a while I have questions regarding a blemish that affects the skin of neck and throat. Using a slightly stimulating washing preparation twice a day will speedily correct this condition.

A light application of cleansing cream quickly removes all danger of a "shadow" on the back of your neck. As a definite corrective measure, skin clearing cream massaged into the throat with sweeping downward movements will eradicate the "permanent" condition developing through the constant wearing of dyed furs.

Wipe the dates carefully, and cut off one end of each with a sharp knife, making the cut about half an inch deep. Pull out the pit lengthwise. Soften about a half-pound of almond paste with a little water, and beat in a half-pound of confectioner's sugar. Divide the paste into four parts. Flavor the first part with a little lemon rind, grated; the second with grated orange rind; the third with a few chopped cherries, the fourth with finely chopped pistachio nuts. Roll and cut each filling about three-quarter inch long and about one-half inch thick. Stuff each date lengthwise with the chosen mixture, and roll the dates in granulated sugar.

Kellygrams

Nearly everybody, I suppose, strives to appear wiser than he really is.

But an ignorant or stupid person is usually less inclined than a more intelligent person to confess lack of information.

Since knowledge means superiority, those of us who have none to spare can't well afford to take chances on appearing ignorant.

But what makes it particularly difficult for a woefully ignorant man is that he doesn't even know just what it is permissible not to know.

Although bobbed-haired women are supposed to be life-savers for barbers in futile competition with safety razors, I find that most barbers do not like women customers.

"A man lets you alone," one barber told me, "but women go into great detail about just how they want their hair cut. Then, no matter how it's done, it doesn't quite suit them. Moreover, they don't give tips, and pay rather grudgingly."

Diet and Health

ARE YOU AN OVER-WEIGHTER? YOU OVEREAT FOR YOUR NEEDS

Why Are You Overweight?

Heretofore I have been saying that 99 times out of 100, if you are overweight, it is because you overeat for your needs. The 1% I excluded, I said might have some disturbance of the internal secretory glands. But now I am going to tell you that if you are overweight, 100 times out of 100 it is because you overeat for your needs! For I know that even if there is some disturbance of your glands, the overweight will not result unless that is true.

Fat is made from food, and food only, and it is only when there is some food beyond what the body needs for its external and internal activities that it can be deposited as fat.

I am reminded of this by a recent lecture I heard on the pituitary gland, given by Dr. Philip E. Smith, at the American Institute. (This is a little gland, the size of a large pea, part of, and at the base of the brain.) He showed a picture of a white rat, whose pituitary gland had been damaged experimentally. It was enormous! fat. You can't imagine a rat so fat as it was. Dr. Smith stated after the gland was damaged, the rat did nothing but eat and sleep. The doctor wasn't talking of overweight, and let it go at that. Added that of course disturbance of the pituitary gland was not by any means the chief cause of overweight, an diet it go at that.

After the lecture, I asked Dr. Smith—who is very tall and thin—why he did not give the real cause of overweight—overeating for the needs? He answered that he believed that the pituitary disturbance was the cause in quite a number of cases, and that the thyroid in others, and then heredity had some influence, because, for instance, he himself ate enormously but he did not gain. I then asked him if that rat would have got so fat if it had not eaten all the time, and he acknowledged, with a grin, that naturally it couldn't have!

All of the glands (and other tissues of the body) can be disturbed, and markedly so, by the unbalanced diet which brings on overweight, so no doubt there is a vicious circle formed. First the unbalanced and excessive diet brings on overweight, and also disturbs the glands. This glandular disturbance in turn affects the mentality so that eating and sleeping are the chief pleasures of life. Reducing the diet and balancing it may restore the glands in these cases to normal, although medication may also be needed by this time.

However, many of my overweight followers have reported to me that they had been diagnosed as having glandular disturbance, but they were entirely cured simply by going on a balanced reducing diet, as outlined in my articles.

"UNDECIDED." Your doubts on the subject make me feel it would be wise for you to wait awhile to see if this love lasts. You are young, so there is no reason for rushing into matrimony. If she loves you as she says she does, she will wait, and then you will tell whether this is just a passing fancy or a real, lasting love. If former marriage would make a difference only that, as she was unhappy before, she might appreciate a good husband the better.

Central Buccaneers Meet Columbus East Quintet

WILSON TOSSERS TO RETURN TO ACTION AFTER IDLE PERIOD

Saturday Game Is Last Before Loop Season Opens

By PHIL FRAME

After two weeks of idleness, Xenia Central High School's "Buccaneers" will return to the hard-wood Saturday night at the local gym against Columbus East High School with a third straight victory as their objective.

Prior to the Christmas holidays, two teams came, saw but failed to conquer Coach Walter L. "Pinky" Wilson's pets. Leesburg went down to defeat by a two-point margin, 15 to 13 and Wilmington, following Leesburg's lead, lost to Xenia, 18 to 13.

With a spotless record to date, the Bucs will strive to remain undefeated this week, which will mark the end of Xenia's pre-Miami Valley League campaign.

On the following week Central opens its league schedule against Sidney High here, the fourth consecutive home game, and by that time Coach Wilson believes his quintet will be in its best form for the strenuous league competition, to follow.

Meanwhile, Columbus East looms as a big obstacle that the Bucs may find difficult in hurdling. Xenia and East High have not met in basketball for a number of years but the Columbus school usually is represented by a strong team.

While East is not rated as the best basketball team in that city this season—Columbus Central being classed as the stronger of the two—Xenia is anticipating a stiff contest.

Xenia and Columbus East have met twice in previous years, each school winning once. The rub game, postponed for six or seven years, will therefore be played Saturday.

The Buccaneers have not been exactly idle during the holiday period despite the absence of regularly-scheduled games. Members of the first squad have been practicing frequently at the school gym to avoid slipping back and are in the best possible condition for the tussle.

The main contest will be preceded by a Junior High preliminary at 7:30 o'clock and the Xenia-East game will be handled by Harvey Schwab, Dayton.

ASK INDICTMENT OF DEFAULTING TELLER

PAINESVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—An indictment against C. R. Butler, teller of the Paintersville branch of the Cleveland Trust Co., charging embezzlement, will be asked of the county grand jury when it convenes Jan. 7.—Butler is in the Lake County Jail in default of $10,000 bond. He waived preliminary hearing when arraigned before Municipal Judge Marvin H. Helter. A. G. Reynolds, who retired from the Common Pleas Court bench this week after twenty years of service, has been retained to defend Butler.

Butler, according to M. J. Ludwig, manager of the local branch bank, admitted that he took money in amounts ranging from $40 to $100 during the past eighteen months, spending it for liquor and social entertainments.

WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET IN COLUMBUS

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 4.—Miss Grace Peters, Columbus, will preside as chairman when the Ohio League of Women Voters meets in Columbus May 2, 3 and 4.

Decision to hold the meeting in Columbus was reached at a meeting of the executive committee here.

The committee announced the selection of the following delegates and alternates to the annual cause and cure of war conference in Washington, Jan. 16.

Sybil Burton, Zanesville; Juliette Sessions, Columbus; Mrs. Malcolm McBride, Cleveland; Olive Colton, Toledo and Mrs. M. M. Stanley, Dayton.

Alternates: Mrs. O. M. Davidson, Dayton; Dorothy Karl, Toledo; Mrs. William D. Schultz, Zanesville.

CONDEMN ALLEGED SLAYER TO DEATH

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 4.—Rodney Ford, 28, condemned to death for the murder of Peter Dumele, marshal of North College Hill, during a robbery, will be committed to the state penitentiary this week.

The jury which returned the verdict of death deliberated only an hour. Mercy was not recommended.

When the jury announced they were ready to report, Ford asked that his wife and mother be excluded from the court room, saying "I don't want a scene."

He received the verdict without visible show of emotion.

Many Remedies Tried—then Resinol

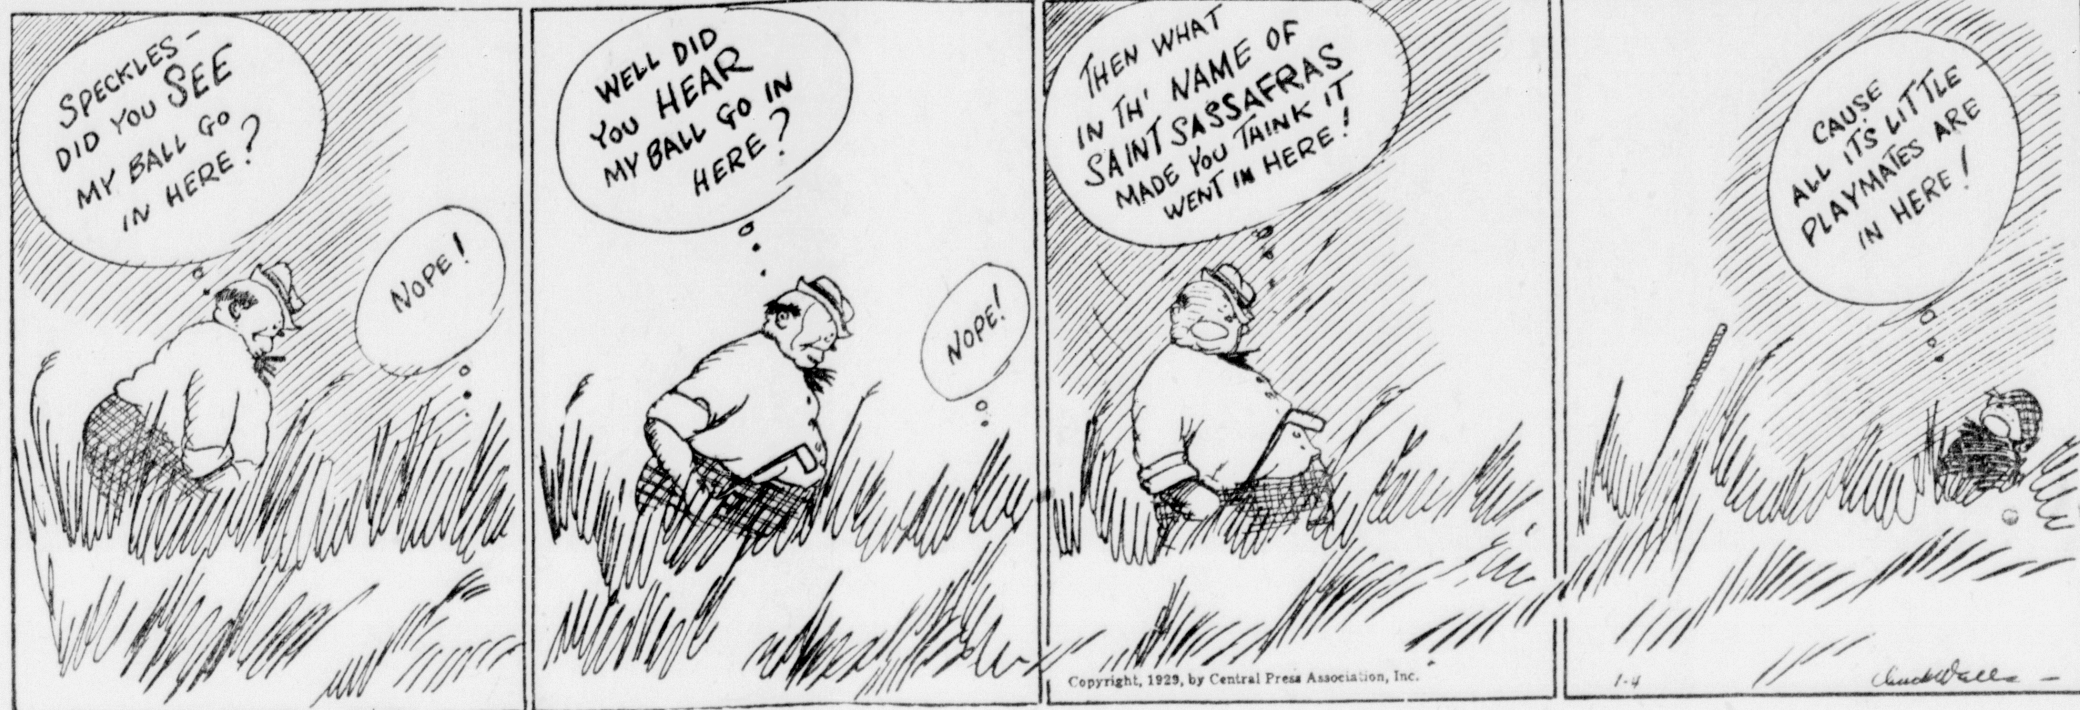

Cincinnati, Ohio—"For the past year I have been bothered with eczema on my feet and limbs, from which I suffered the greatest agony and found sleep almost impossible. I tried all kinds of remedies, even prescribed treatments, but got no relief. A friend suggested Resinol Ointment and I tried it at once. After applying Resinol Soap in the morning, the Resinol Soap, too, as your exclusive toilet soap. At all druggists.

In thousands of homes, Resinol Soap and Ointment are stand-bys for all forms of eczema, rash and other skin disorders. Put on the Ointment overnight. Then wash off with Resinol Soap in the morning. Use Resinol Soap, too, as your exclusive toilet soap. At all druggists.

DEATH FAILS TO SEPARATE PAIR

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—Even death failed to separate Miranda Bishop, 81, and her sister, Martha, 83, who for the past four score of years had spent their lives together.

Last week both became ill from pneumonia. Neighbors found Martha dead Sunday on the floor of their little cabin, beside a fireless grate. Miranda was seriously ill. Funeral services were in progress for Martha when word was received that Miranda was dead. The services were halted, and yesterday after a joint service, the sisters were buried together.

CENTRAL RESERVES TO PLAY ROSS HIGH

Xenia Central High School's reserves will meet Ross Twp. High School in a basketball game scheduled for Friday night on the Ross floor. It is announced Coach Walter L. "Pinky" Wilson will be in charge of the second team. It is hoped by scheduling practice games now and then throughout the season that the second-stringers will acquire valuable experience in actual games at chances are often few and far between to break into the lineup in the regular Buccaneer games.

ARRESTS UNCOVER ALLEGED WET RING

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Four men were under arrest here today in connection with the operations of an alleged Columbus-Buffalo liquor ring.

They are Clifford Miller, delivery supervisor for the American Railway Express Company here; Isaac Schwegel, Buffalo; Joseph Link, Columbus, truck driver and Carl Weisenbach, no address.

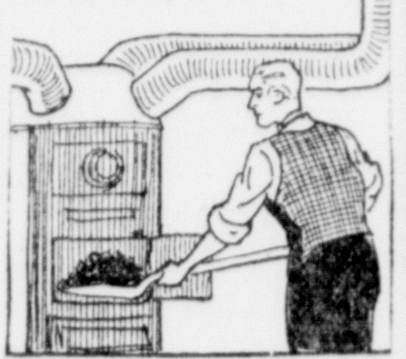

Indictments have been returned against the four and others, arrest of whom was expected today.

The ring shipped liquor from Buffalo to Columbus under fictitious bills of lading, federal officers said, and the liquor was disposed of in downtown hotels.

Central Buccaneers Meet Columbus East Quintet

WILSON TOSSERS TO RETURN TO ACTION AFTER IDLE PERIOD

Saturday Game Is Last Before Loop Season Opens

By PHIL FRAME
After two weeks of idleness, Xenia Central High School's "Buccaneers" will return to the hard-wood Saturday night at the local gym against Columbus East High School with a third straight victory as their objective.

Prior to the Christmas holidays, two teams came, saw but failed to conquer Coach Walter L. "Pinky" Wilson's pet, Leesburg went down to defeat by a two-point margin, 15 to 13 and Wilmington, following Leesburg's lead, lost to Xenia, 18 to 13.

With a spotless record to date, the Bucs will strive to remain undefeated this week, which will mark the end of Xenia's pre-Miami Valley League campaign. On the following week Central opens its league schedule against Sidney High here, the fourth consecutive home game, and by that time Coach Wilson believes his quintet will be in its best form for the strenuous league competition, to follow.

Meanwhile, Columbus East looms as a big obstacle that the Bucs may find difficult in hurdling. Xenia and East High have not met in basketball for a number of years but the Columbus school usually is represented by a strong team.

While East is not rated as the best basketball team in that city this season—Columbus Central being classed as the stronger of the two—Xenia is anticipating a stiff contest.

Xenia and Columbus East have met twice in previous years, Xenia winning once. The school game, postponed for six or seven years, will therefore be played Saturday.

The Buccaneers have not been exactly idle during the holiday period despite the absence of regularly-scheduled games. Members of the first squad have been practicing frequently at the school gym to avoid slipping back and are in the best possible condition for the tussle.

The main contest will be preceded by a Junior High preliminary at 7:30 o'clock and the Xenia-East game will be handled by Harvey Schwab, Dayton.

Cardinals' Pride

Jim Bottomley, pride of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was selected the most valuable player to his team for the season of 1928, is spending the winter months with his parents at Nokomis, Ill., selling automobiles. Photo shows Bottomley while hunting during his daily jaunts to keep fit.

ASK INDICTMENT OF DEFAULTING TELLER

PAINEVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—An indictment against C. R. Butler, teller of the Paintersville branch of the Cleveland Trust Co., charging embezzlement, will be asked of the county grand jury when it convenes Jan. 7. Butler is in the Lake County Jail in default of $10,000 bond. He waived preliminary hearing when arraigned before Municipal Judge Marvin H. Helter. A. G. Reynolds, who retired from the Common Pleas Court bench this week after twenty years of service, has been retained to defend Butler.

Butler, according to M. J. Ludwig, manager of the local branch bank, admitted that he took money in amounts ranging from $40 to $100 during the past eighteen months, spending it for liquor and social entertainments.

WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET IN COLUMBUS

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 4.—Miss Grace Peters, Columbus, will preside as chairman when the Ohio League of Women Voters meets in Columbus May 2, 3 and 4. Decision to hold the meeting in Columbus was reached at a meeting of the executive committee here.

The committee announced the selection of the following delegates and alternates to the annual cause and cure of war conference in Washington, Jan. 16.

Sybil Burton, Zanesville; Juliette Sessions, Columbus; Mrs. Malcolm McBride, Cleveland; Olive Colton, Toledo and Mrs. M. M. Stanley, Dayton.

CONDEMN ALLEGED SLAYER TO DEATH

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 4.—Rodney Ford, 28, condemned to death for the murder of Peter Dumele, marshal of North College Hill, during a robbery, will be hanged to the state penitentiary this week. The jury which returned the verdict of death deliberated only an hour. Mercy was not recommended.

When the jury announced they were ready to report, Ford asked that his wife and mother be excluded from the court room, saying "I don't want a scene."

He received the verdict without visible show of emotion.

Many Remedies Tried—then Resinol

Cincinnati, Ohio—"For the past year I have been bothered with eczema on my feet and limbs, from which I suffered the greatest agony and found sleep almost impossible. I tried all kinds of remedies, even prescribed treatments, but got no relief. A friend suggested Resinol Ointment and I tried it at once. After applying Resinol Ointment I was able to sleep well all night for the first time in months. I am now entirely well." (Signed) J. Cal. Wells.

In thousands of homes, Resinol Soap and Ointment are stand-bys for all forms of eczema, rash and other skin disorders. Put on the Ointment overnight. Then wash off with Resinol Soap in the morning. Use Resinol Soap, too, as your exclusive toilet soap. At all druggists.

THE MEADOWLARKS—The Voice of Experience

DEATH FAILS TO SEPARATE PAIR

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—Even death failed to separate Miranda Bishop, 81, and her sister, Martha, 83, who for the past four score of years had spent their lives together. Last week both became ill from pneumonia. Neighbors found Martha dead Sunday on the floor of their little cabin, beside a fireless grate. Miranda was seriously ill. Funeral services were in progress for Martha when word was received that Miranda was dead. The services were halted, and yesterday after a joint service, the sisters were buried together.

CENTRAL RESERVES TO PLAY ROSS HIGH

Xenia Central High School's reserves will meet Ross Twp. High School in a basketball game scheduled for Friday night on the Ross floor, it is announced. Coach Walter L. "Pinky" Wilson will be in charge of the second team. It is hoped by scheduling practice games now and then throughout the season that the second-stringers will acquire valuable experience in actual games at chances are often few and far between to break into the lineup in the regular Buccaneer games.

ARRESTS UNCOVER ALLEGED WET RING

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Four men were under arrest here today in connection with the operations of an alleged Columbus-Butler liquor ring.

They are Clifford Miller, delivery supervisor for the American Railway Express Company here; Isaac Schwed, Butler; Joseph Link, Columbus, truck driver and Carl Weisenbach, no address.

Indictments have been returned against the four and others, arrest of whom was expected today.

The ring shipped liquor from Butler to Columbus under fictitious bills of lading, federal officers said, and the liquor was disposed of in downtown hotels.

Confer on Rothstein Mystery

In Limelight Again

Our Mary's little sister, Lottie, just can't seem to keep out of the limelight even if it's shed around the police station. Miss Pickford, after recent kidnap tale, is center of a probe to find out what happened at Christmas eve party in her Hollywood home, in which Dan Jaeger, retired millionaire, and Jack Daugherty, western star, engaged in fistfists before assembled guests.

Civic Leader Slain

Hall Davis (above), of Atlanta, Ga., auto dealer and civic leader, who was slain recently under mysterious circumstances. One man is being held for questioning in connection with the murder.

Marries Diplomat

In Princes' Row Register Office, London, Lady Northesk (above), formerly Jessica Brown of the "Follies," was married to Mr. Vivian Cornelius, young British diplomat stationed in Brussels. She recently divorced first mate on grounds of infidelity.

"Under a Spell"

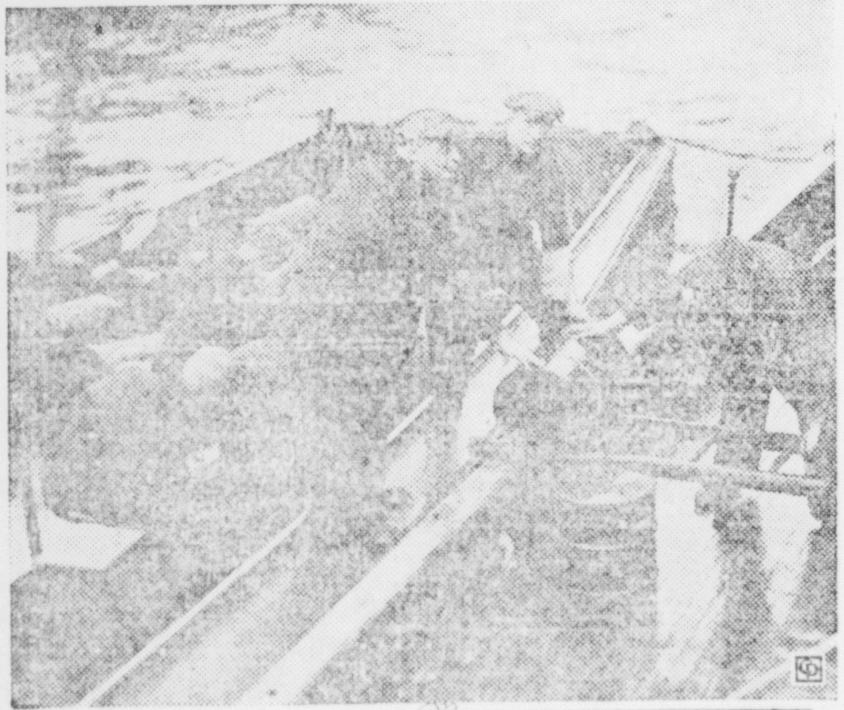

Calmly stroking her pet cat Helen Eiker (above), 18, widow of Percy Eiker, alleged victim in murder plot, told police she was under the "spell" of a York, Pa., "pow wow" doctor at time of crime. Photo shows her in her cell where she is awaiting action of the grand jury.

STAR KEEPS PLAY RECORD CLEAN

Rather than risk marring her record of never having had a failure, Ina Claire, Broadway star, above, has done an unusual thing by having her play, "The Gaoler's Wench," scrapped before it reached Broadway. The play was given only a week's tryout in Brooklyn.

SEIZE FORTUNE IN HOLIDAY CHEER

Rather than submit to capture the crew of an alcohol laden dory off New York jumped into the water and swam ashore when a coast guard cutter hove into sight. The crew of the cutter is shown unloading 200 drums of alcohol and 70 cases of rye from the dory.

Her Wardrobe Held

The Countess de Taurine (above), formerly Mrs. Peal H. Flanagan, of Wichita, Kan., deplors loss of her wardrobe seized by French officialdom following an investigation of $23,000,000 "school" which she and other Americans sought to obtain funds for. The pretty matron obtained her title through the gift to her of an ancient chateau.

"Yesses" Producer

Lots of mere males would run a temperature at being close to so much loveliness, but Phil Tyrrell, Chicago theatre man, must get used to it. You see, he and Vanessi Jardiniere—Vanessi of the beautiful figure—of the musical comedy stage, tripped into the Municipal building, New York city, and when they came out they were man and wife.

Fiend's Victim

Here is an old snapshot of Julia Mlodzianowska, 5, whom Peter Kudzenowski, "thrill" killer, confesses he murdered when she "got scared and began to cry." The child's parents live in Jersey City, N. J.

THE WORLD'S GRANDEST GOBLER

GETS THRILL OUT OF AIR AT 105

The thrill of a stormy night at sea in a sailboat cannot compare with the exhilaration of one's first airplane ride, in the estimation of Mrs. Georgiana Collett, 105-year-old Oakland, Cal., woman. She went up on her birthday with Chet Dowling, Oakland pilot. Mrs. Collett is the widow of a sea captain who sailed around the world in the days before steam supplanted sails.

Thrill Killer in Christmas Role

The remarkable photo above shows George Harsh, Oglethorpe (Ga.) college student, cynic and confessed thrill murderer, as he appeared with "Big Bill" Turner (left), custodian of Fulton Tower prison, Atlanta, while decorating Christmas tree for fellow-inmates. Another student, Richard Galsworthy, is held jointly with Harsh in thrill murder case.

To Ask Divorce?

Vivacious Irene Bordini, musical comedy star, who, it is reported, will seek a divorce from E. Ray Goetz, Broadway producer. But neither will talk at the present moment.

Miss Germany

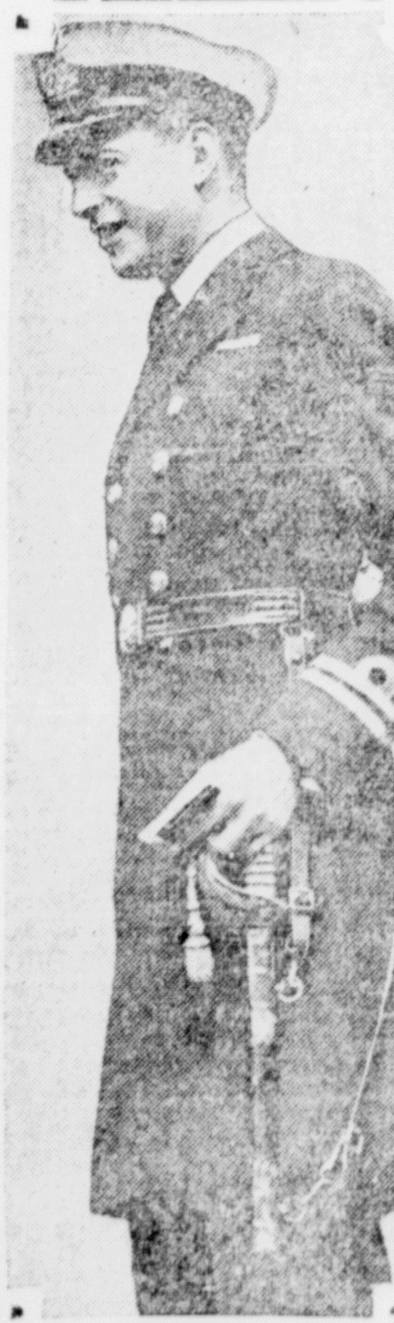

Selected, as "Miss Germany" for 1929, Elizabeth Radzyn, of Berlin, will take part in the international beauty contest to be held in the United States next year. She was snapped at Berlin.

"Man's Inferior!"

Bubbling over with a new conviction, Mary Garden, opera singer and director, arrived in Chicago the other day to start a new season. She told interviewers that woman is "inferior to man," and therefore should have a care in adopting a career nowadays.

Prince Races Home

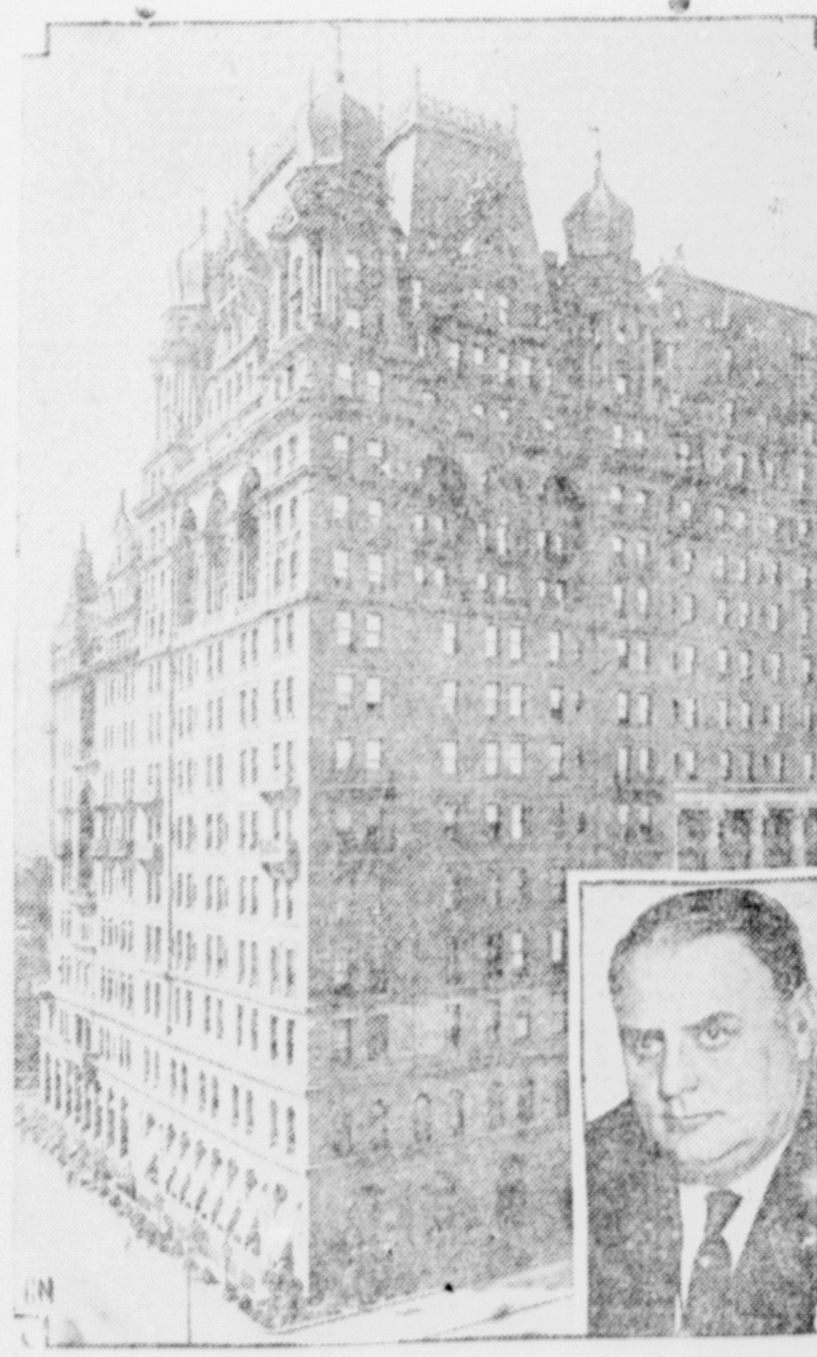

Prince George (above), youngest son of King George and Queen Mary of England, left Hamilton, Bermuda, aboard H. M. S. Durban for New York, where he will trans-ship to S. S. Berengaria for home. He is a lieutenant in the Royal Navy and as such was serving in Bermuda waters.

Titled Adopter

The Marchioness of Huntley, of Orton Hall, Petersborough, Eng., who has adopted Marjorie and Isabelle Mense (below), great nieces of hers, resident in Chicago. They have been living with stepmother since the death of their father.

Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Sold

Historic Waldorf-Astoria hotel on Fifth avenue, between 33rd and 34th streets, New York City, which has been sold for $15,000,000 to make way for a 50-story office building. Inset: Oscar of the Waldorf, probably best known maitre de hotel in the world. He will retire to his 1,000-acre farm near New Paltz, Ulster county, New York.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Old Testament view of sin is depicted in Genesis 3:1-24; 6:5-8. The New Testament idea of sin is found in Mark 7:14-23; Romans 1:18-22; 3:10-15 and in this lesson. It is a subject as old as the human race and is the source of more disaster than any other cause and needs constant attention.

V. 5. "God is light and in him is no darkness at all." As light scatters darkness, so the life that comes from God exposes and scatters sin. The problem of sin is taken care of as individuals walk closer with God.

V. 6. "If we say that we have fellowship with him and walk in the darkness, we lie and do not the truth." A life of sin is incompatible with a life in fellowship with God.

V. 7. "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with another and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from sin." When the individual has done his best to know the will of God and to do his will, his story proves that something happens within the soul which is best explained by a new power wrought within by the power of God.

V. 8. "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." Sin in the singular number as in this case refers to an evil tendency, a corruption within, in from which proceeds "sins" plural number, which is the fruit of sin. Sins are forgiven but sin is cleansed as described in verse 9.

V. 9. "My little children, these things write I unto thee that ye may not sin and if any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." No man is justified in voluntarily committing sin. Because of imperfect judgment and knowledge, as well as wrong reasoning, the best man can err but his sin may be atoned by the death of Christ.

V. 10. "Hereby we know that we are known by him if we keep his commandments." This implies one's best effort in knowing the will of God and in carrying out his program. In him there is a reinforcement of love.

V. 11. "He that saith he abideth in him ought also to walk even as he walked." One's walk is always more important than his talk.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What was the attitude toward sin in Old Testament time? Last century? This century? What is sin?

2. How may we know that God hates sin? How may we be led to hate sin as God hates it?

3. What changes would be effected if men hated sin as God hates it?

4. What is "light" as taught in this lesson? What would happen if the light were shut off?

5. What is real fellowship and what is its spiritual value?

Clericus says, "The tendency to make light of sin is prevalent but it does not change the fact and seriousness of sin; it produces death of soul which is worse than the death of the body."

LESSON PRAYER

O Lord, make us sensitive to the least evil suggestion and give us a heart to flee to Thee for the needed strength to meet all temptation to sin. We thank thee for the promised success.

MR. LINCOLN AND THE BIBLE

A visitor in Washington D. C. had arranged to visit the president at 5 a. m. Fearing that he might miss the president even at so early an hour, he presented himself at the White House at four forty-five and asked the usher if he could see Mr. Lincoln.

"No," the usher replied.

"But I have an engagement to meet him this morning," cried the visitor.

"At what hour?" questioned the usher.

"Five o'clock."

"Well, sir, the president will see you at five."

The visitor waited patiently, walking to and fro for a few minutes when he heard a voice as if in grave conversation.

"Who is talking in the next room?" he asked.

"It is the president, sir," said the usher, who then explained that it was Mr. Lincoln's custom to spend every morning from four to five reading the scriptures and praying.

Church Forum

1. What is the test of a spiritual Church?

H. A. Overstreet, professor of psychology in New York University answers this question by asking five questions, the answers to which serve to indicate somewhat the spiritual status of the church. The questions are these: Has the church done anything different during the last year? Has the inspiration of these things come solely from the top down, from the minister, or has it, time and again, come from the group themselves?

During the last year has the group concerned itself with anything outside of the church itself? How many members belong to the prejudice fostering group which breeds hatred through a distortion of fact? How many members belong to groups that are organized for the deliberate purpose of finding out the truth about human matters? Is the church tribal-minded, indicated by membership in world associations, associations for promoting world peace, for developing the international mind?

What is the end and aim of the church?

The end or aim of the church by good authority is the creation of the kingdom of God upon earth, the reign of God in the hearts of men, the realm and presence of God in the affairs of men. The end is both social and individual. It is the creation of a better environment for men to live in; it is the making of better nations, better cities, better social lives and better homes.

At the request of a mission working among gypsies in Bulgaria, numbering about 120,000, the American Bible Society has authorized preparation of a portion of the gospel to be printed in the Bulgarian character. The gospel of Luke is the only part of the Bible available to the gypsies at present.

daily newspapers are now publishing Christian articles, also.

The Roman Catholic Church throughout the world is contributing a large sum for the building of a church in Jerusalem. The corner stone of this edifice was laid in 1919. The building is located in the Garden of Gethsemane over the spot on which according to tradition, Jesus knelt for his prayer on the night of his betrayal. The cost of the church will be approximately $450,000 and will be completed in about three years.

An attempt is being made to locate Noah's ark to place among other exhibits at the Centennial Exhibition in Chicago in 1933. Funds for the undertaking will be donated by Rufus G. Dawes, president of the world's fair. It is proposed to search over and all around Mount Ararat by airplanes, equipped with large cameras. Vast sections of this territory have never been explored. Wooden chariots have recently been unearthed in Mesopotamia, the age of which is estimated at five thousand years.

A great Methodist pilgrimage is being planned by Methodists of Great Britain in 1930. An entire ship has been chartered for this purpose. This pilgrimage is somewhat similar to that of the Congregationalists some time ago.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE PEACE PACT

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America at its recent annual meeting went on record as to the significance of the Kellogg Peace Pact in the following statement: "The acceptance of the pact by the nations as an imperative obligation to seek the solution of their controversies by peaceful methods exclusively will depend in large measure on the acceptance of that obligation in actual practice by the United States itself. We believe that any material increase of the United States navy at this time would be inconsistent with the spirit and purpose of the general pact of Paris and would tend to nullify its influence in producing mutual confidence among the nations. We therefore urge that no authorization be given for such increase."

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Old Testament view of sin is depicted in Genesis 3:1-24; 6:5-8. The New Testament idea of sin is found in Mark 7:14-23; Romans 1:18-32; 3:10-15 and in this lesson. It is a subject as old as the human race and is the source of more disaster than any other cause and needs constant attention.

V. 5 "God is light and in him is no darkness at all." As light scatters darkness, so the life that comes from God exposes and scatters sin. The problem of sin is taken care of as individuals walk closer with God.

V. 6 "If we say that we have fellowship with him and walk in the darkness, we lie and do not the truth." A life of sin is incompatible with a life in fellowship with God.

V. 7 "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with another and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from sin." When the individual has done his best to know the will of God and to do his will, history proves that something happens within the soul which is best explained by a new force wrought within by the power of God.

V. 8 "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." Sin in the singular number as in this case refers to an evil tendency, a corruption within from which proceeds "sins" plural number, which is the fruit of sin. Sins are forgiven but sin is cleansed as described in verse 9.

V. 1 "My little children, these things write I unto thee that ye may not sin and if any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." No man is justified in voluntarily committing sin. Because of imperfect judgment and knowledge, as well as wrong reasoning, the best man can err but his sin may be atoned by the death of Christ.

V. 2 "Hereby we know that we are known by him if we keep his commandments." This implies one's best effort in knowing the will of God and in carrying out his program. In him there is a reinforcement of faith he abideth in him ought also to walk even as he walked." One's walk is always more important than his talk.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What was the attitude toward sin in Old Testament time? Last century? This century? What is sin?

2. How may we know that God hates sin? How may we be led to hate sin as God hates it?

3. What changes would be effected if men hated sin as God hates it?

4. What is "light" as taught in this lesson? What would happen if the light were shut off?

5. What is real fellowship and what is its spiritual value? Clericus says, "The tendency to make light of sin is prevalent but it does not change the fact and seriousness of sin; it produces death of soul which is worse than the death of the body."

LESSON PRAYER
O Lord, make us sensitive to the least evil suggestion and give us a heart to flee to Thee for the needed strength to meet all temptation to sin. We thank thee for the promised savior.

MR. LINCOLN AND THE BIBLE

A visitor in Washington D. C. had arranged to visit the president at 5 a. m. Fearing that he might miss the president even at so early an hour, he presented himself at the White House at four forty-five and asked the usher if he could see Mr. Lincoln.

"No," the usher replied. "But I have an engagement to meet him this morning," urged the visitor.

"At what hour?" questioned the usher.

"Five o'clock."

"Well, sir, the president will see you at five."

The visitor waited patiently, walking to and fro for a few minutes, when he heard a voice say in grave conversation.

"Who is talking in the next room?" he asked.

"It is the president, sir," said the usher, who then explained that it was Mr. Lincoln's custom to spend every morning from four to five reading the scriptures and praying.

Church Forum

1. What is the test of a spiritual Church?

H. A. Overstreet, professor of psychology in New York University answers the question by asking five questions, the answers to which serve to indicate somewhat the spiritual status of the church. The questions are these: Has the church done anything different during the last year? Has the inspiration of these things come solely from the top down, from the minister, or has it, time and again, come from the group themselves?

During the last year has the group concerned itself with anything outside of the church itself? How many members belong to the prejudice fostering group which breeds hatred through a distortion of fact? How many members belong to groups that are organized for the deliberate purpose of finding out the truth about human nature?

Is the church tribal-minded, indicated by membership in world associations, associations for promoting world peace, for developing the international mind?

What is the end and aim of the church?

The end or aim of the church by good authority is the creation of the kingdom of God upon earth, the reign of God in the hearts of men, the realm and presence of God in the affairs of men. The end is both social and individual. It is the creation of a better environment for men to live in; it is the making of better nations, better cities, better social lives and better homes.

At the request of a mission working among gypsies in Bulgaria, numbering about 120,000, the American Bible Society has authorized preparation of a portion of the gospel to be printed in the Bulgarian character. The gospel of Luke is the only part of the Bible available to the gypsies at present.

9:30 a. m. Bible School. Classes suited to all grades and ages.
10:30 a. m. worship. Children's story. Sermon topic, "Self-Examination"—a message for the new year.

Wednesday, January 9, regular monthly business meeting.

JOHN THE BAPTIST
SUBJECT OF PRAYER
WEEK SERMON HERE

Based on his Thursday evening address on the Biblical story of John the Baptist in prison Dr. William Crowe gave an inspiring sermon at the Presbyterian Church, where the Week of Prayer is being held.

Recalling John the Baptist's question sent by messengers of Jesus: "Art thou the Christ or shall we look for another?" Dr. Crowe asked the question, "Are you losing faith in Christ?"

"You cannot lose what you have not got," he declared. He spoke of faith, saying if one has had but little faith he is rich. "When your faith begins to fail, look around and see the lives that have been transformed in your community and you will see what the messengers of John saw."

Dr. Crowe said the greatest work that anyone can do is to take a friend by the hand and introduce him to the Christ. "That is the great opportunity that comes to every Christian," he said and continued by speaking of the indifference of many people to Christianity.

The Girls' Octette of the O. S. and S. O. Home gave two songs at the evening service. In the afternoon, Dr. Crowe gave an interesting address on "The Temptation of Jesus," as recorded in Matthew, fourth chapter. A pleasant feature of the afternoon service was the presence of Dr. Moorehead of Dayton, and the inspiring prayer he delivered. Dr. Crowe and Dr. Moorehead have long been friends.

LET'S LIVE! MILDRED LAMB

READ THIS FIRST:

Byrd Browning, brought up in a small town, was trying to adapt himself to her fast-moving, magnetic, young husband, Larry. But she soon discovered that Jack, Dur can, his business associate, was plunging him into debt instead of making him rich as he promised. Larry's friends were lively and spendthrift, and Larry, too, was spending his entire income, even the large sums he was continually borrowing from Mr. Hamilton. Byrd's father, on useless extravagance and on India Campbell, a former sweetheart of Larry's, who "borrowed" from everybody.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

On the following Saturday Byrd and Larry moved into their new home in Greenwood.

Byrd had spent the whole week there, superintending Tony, who was fixing up the yard and helping Julia, the cleaning woman, who scoured the house until it glistened like a bright dream.

She thought of every little thing: the telephone, the gas, the electric light, even the newspaper. The things that had been in storage since the marriage, too.

And every day she unpacked with trembling and eager fingers the articles that she and Larry had purchased.

Lovely reproductions of old Colonial furniture in keeping with the house itself.

There were the drop-leaf table and six ladder-back chairs in natural cherry for the dining room and the twin spool beds for their bedroom and the four-poster one for the guest room. Byrd intended to ask her mother for some of the antiques that crowded the parlors at home and chests of drawers that stood in the attic.

"Mother never appreciated them, anyway," she said to Pat. "It was dad that made her keep them."

Pat turned up an airy nose. "What do you want all that old junk for?" she inquired, disdainfully. "Believe you me, I wouldn't want any of that moth-eaten junk in my house."

"Wait and see," answered Byrd, with a little smile. "Mother'd faint over the back of her chair if she knew what 'moth-eaten junk' is really worth!"

The moving van had deposited its load, and Pat and Byrd were in coversal aprons, ready to swoop down on it.

"Put on your overalls," Pat called to Larry. "You can't work all dressed up like a Christmas tree."

"Larry hasn't any old clothes," said Byrd, laughingly, "unless you call a suit he's worn a dozen times old."

"Well, get busy, old thing!" Pat's insistent voice kept right after Larry like a sledge hammer.

But Larry's only concession to work was to remove his coat and start looking for the hammer and the screwdriver.

"Better set up the beds first," advised Byrd, but Larry was hanging pictures which he thought much more important.

Then he disappeared into the basement, most of which he had appropriated for storage purposes.

"Larry's delighted with the size of the basement," said Byrd, a little crossly. "He's figuring out all the time how many barrels and bottles it'll accommodate."

They heard a merry hallooing from the outside, and saw Chet coming up the walk, carrying a basket of groceries. His smart, little robin's egg blue coupe stood at the curb.

"Thought you'd forget about food, so I brought enough provisions to last over Sunday," he said, grinning at them.

Three little girls, in khaki bloomers, who lived next door, hovered in the driveway, fairly palpitating with excitement, with eyes glued on all activities that went on in the white house.

Byrd smiled and nodded to them, and got a chorus of questions later.

Soon three little noses were flattened against the back door screen. Just as Byrd decided to forage in Chet's basket for the makings of a little supper, one of the little girls arrived importantly with a basket covered with a spotted muslin, and said, primly, that her mother had sent something over for their supper.

Pat gave a little shriek of surprise as she uncovered a baking dish filled with steaming spaghetti, cooked Italian style, and a dish of Parmesan cheese. She had a spoon and was tasting it with loud smack.

"Now, wasn't that nice of Mrs. Bloggs," said Byrd.

"I think if you should ask me, it's gosh awful," said Larry, scowling. "I wish people would learn to mind their own business. Before we know it, every family on the street will know how many quarts of milk we use, and how many shirts I send to the laundry every week."

"So's your old man!" laughed Chet. "It's only brotherly love. The gregarious instinct, old fellow, is the strongest instinct of the human race. The proletariat, the vox populi, you know."

"Does all that make sense?" asked Pat, brightly. "It not—or what have you?"

"It's apple jelly!" said Larry. "More than that it makes incense," laughed Byrd. "This is probably the smoke from the burnt offering from our neighbor on the altar of friendship."

After the dishes were washed and left to dry, for Pat wouldn't do one unnecessary stroke of work, she said she was all tired out.

"Let's go out for a little drive, Chet," she suggested.

"Consider the 'Tiger Lily,'" said Chet, grandiloquently. "She tells not—but oh, boy, how she can spin around in a fellow's car. Well, come on, Miss Alice Oooop!"

"Seems to me Chet spends a good deal of time around here," remarked Larry, after they had gone. "Pat's too young to have a steady bean. Why don't you tell Chet so?"

"It's better than having her chasing over every night with India or Eddie, or any of the rest of that tribe," said Byrd, with asperity.

"Pat's young and full of life. It's natural she should want to tear around a little," said Larry, tolerantly.

Byrd thought that there was only a few years' difference in their ages and perhaps she was peculiar—yes, very peculiar, not to want to "tear around, too." That's what Larry implied.

"You might help to get some new ideas in her head," continued Byrd, "but instead you encourage her!"

"Gee gosh!" exploded Larry. "You'd think you laced your mind up in corsets every night."

Byrd quickly changed the subject. Larry was leaving for Dayton to be gone for two weeks, and there were many matters to be discussed. Bills, the payments on the house, insurance.

"I suppose with Pat's help around the house, you'll be able to get along without any maid for a little while," Larry said later.

Byrd was silent. She had her own ideas on the subject, but she decided not to discuss them.

"Larry, I'm not fixing up the back bedroom just now," Byrd said, quietly. "Perhaps later on we'll want to furnish it as a nursery."

Larry's face softened a little, then resumed its impersonal look.

"It would be fun to have a kid or two some day, but we can't think of it right now," he said.

"But we should have our children when we're young so we can enjoy having them grow up with us," broke in Byrd.

"Have you figured the cost of babies?" asked Larry, coolly. "Ask any woman who's had one recently and you'll get the jolt of your life. Why, they're worth their weight in gold!"

Sunday was always a big holiday to Larry and Pat. Without any effort at all, they slept until noon.

Byrd spent the morning in the kitchen. She loved kitchens. In spite of the beauty of her face, and the glory of her rounded, little figure, she was really most at home in a homely little kitchen, with spotless walls, tiled floors and enameled woodwork.

She arranged her new set of Wedgewood dishes in neat piles on the white shelves and planned for the most economical distribution of the pots, pans and kettles. Her small features shone like a piece of china washed in soap suds.

"Everything's got to be out of sight," said Byrd, to herself. "No dish mop hanging over the sink."

She loved the kitchen. Every new device on the market made cooking an intriguing adventure.

After sitting around in their bathrobes for an hour reading the Sunday paper, Pat and Larry decided to go out for their Sunday dinner.

"I'll eat off the pantry shelf," said Byrd. "I don't want to stop to clean up."

Later, while Byrd was working upstairs, putting clean white papers into dresser drawers and arranging Larry's multitudinous shirts in neat rows, she heard voices below.

It was the Obermans and India, and "this here" Eddie.

"I'll tell the world that Byrd got the early worm," said Fred's big voice bloomed up the stairs.

"The cutest, neatest!" warbled Tiny. "As cunning as a kitten's tail! Oh, Fred, I wish I had a bird's nest like this!"

Tiny's carmished lips drew together in a little pout.

LET'S LIVE! MILDRED LAMB

READ THIS FIRST:

Byrd Browning, brought up in a small town, was trying to adapt himself to her fast-moving, magnetic, young husband, Larry, but she soon discovered that Jack Duncan, his business associate, was plunging him into debt instead of making him rich as he promised. Larry's friends were lively and spending his entire income, even the large sums he was continually borrowing from Mr. Hamilton, Byrd's father, on useless extravagance and on India Campbell, a former sweetheart of Larry's, who "borrowed" from everybody.

Pat, Byrd's young sister who lived with them in their small, expensive apartment, intoxicated with city life, started a pace of her own. Finally Byrd bought a house without Larry's knowledge and paid $1,000 down on it, out of the last loan. Tiny and Fred Oberman admired her courage and approved Larry approved of the purchase of the house and he and Byrd spent the entire day buying furniture and furnishings, charging everything to the new accounts which he opened.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

On the following Saturday Byrd and Larry moved into their new home in Greenwood. Byrd had spent the whole week there, superintending Tony, who was fixing up the yard and helping Julia, the cleaning woman, who scoured the house until it glistened like a bright dream.

She thought of every little thing: the telephone, the gas, the electric light, even the newspaper. The things that had been in storage since their marriage, too.

And every day she unpacked with trembling and eager fingers the articles that she and Larry had purchased.

Lovely reproductions of old Colonial furniture in keeping with the house itself.

There were the drop-leaf table and six ladder-back chairs in natural cherry for the dining room and the twin spool beds for their bedroom and the four-poster one for the guest room. Byrd intended to ask her mother for some of the antiques that crowded the parlors at home and chests of drawers that stood in the attic.

"Mother never appreciated them, anyway," she said to Pat. "It was dad that made her keep them."

Pat turned up an airy nose. "What do you want all that old junk for?" she inquired, disdainfully. "Believe you me, I wouldn't want any of that moth-eaten junk in my house."

"Wait and see," answered Byrd. "With a little smile, 'mother'd faint over the back of her chair if she knew what 'moth-eaten junk' is really worth."

Byrd's mother had deposited its load, and Pat and Byrd were in coveralls aprons, ready to swoop down on it.

"Put on your overalls," Pat called to Larry. "You can't work all dressed up like a Christmas tree."

"Larry hasn't any old clothes," said Byrd, laughing. "Unless you call a suit he's worn a dozen times old."

"Well, get busy, old thing!" Pat's impatient voice kept right after Larry like a sledge hammer.

But Larry's only concession to work was to remove his coat and start looking for the hammer and the screwdriver.

"Better set up the beds first," advised Byrd, but Larry was hanging pictures which he thought much more important.

Then he disappeared into the basement, most of which he had appropriated for storage purposes.

"Larry's delighted with the size of the basement," said Byrd, a little crossly. "He's figuring out all the time how many barrels and bottles it'll accommodate."

"They heard a merry hallooing from the outside, and saw Chet coming up the walk, carrying a basket of groceries. His smart, little robin's egg blue coupe stood at the curb."

"Thought you'd forget about food, I brought enough provisions to last over Sunday," he said, grinning at them.

Three little girls, in khaki bloomers, who lived next door, hovered in the driveway, fairly palpitating with excitement, with eyes glued on all activities that went on in the white house.

Byrd smiled and nodded to them, and got a chorus of questions fast. "Soon three little noses were flattened against the back door screen."

Just as Byrd decided to store in Chet's basket for the makings of a little supper, one of the little girls arrived importantly with a basket covered with a spotted napkin, and said, primly, that her mother had sent something over for their supper.

Pat gave a little shriek of surprise as she uncovered a baking dish filled with steaming spaghetti, cooked Italian style, and a dish of Parmesan cheese. She had a spoon and was tasting it with loud smack.

"Now, wasn't that nice of Mrs. Biogas," said Byrd.

"I think if you should ask me, it's gosh awful," said Larry, scowling. "I wish people would learn to mind their own business. Before we know it, every family on the street will know how many quarts of milk we use, and how many shirts I send to the laundry every week."

"So's your old man!" laughed Chet. "It's only brotherly love. The gregarious instinct, old fellow, is the strongest instinct of the human race. The proletariat, the vox populi, you know."

"Does all that make sense?" asked Pat, brightly. "If not—or what have you?"

"It's apple jelly!" said Larry. "More than that it makes sense, because," laughed Byrd. "This is probably the smoke from the burnt offering from our neighbor on the altar of friendship."

After the dishes were washed and left to dry, for Pat wouldn't do one unnecessary stroke of work, she said she was all tired out.

"Let's go out for a little drive, Chet," she suggested.

"Consider the 'Figer Lily,'" said Chet, grandiloquently. "She tells not—but oh, boy, how she can spin around in a fellow's car. Well, come on, Miss Alice Oop!"

"Seems to me Chet spends a good deal of time around here," remarked Larry, after they had gone. "Pat's too young to have a steady beau. Why don't you tell Chet so?"

"It's better than having her chasing out every night with India or Eddie or any of the rest of that tribe," said Byrd, with asperity.

"Pat's young and full of life. It's natural she should want to tear around a little," said Larry, tolerantly.

Byrd thought that there was only a few years' difference in their ages and perhaps she was peculiar—yes, very peculiar, not to want to "gear around, too." That's what Larry implied.

"You might help to get some new ideas into her head," continued Byrd, "but instead you encourage her!"

"Gee gosh!" exploded Larry, "you'd think you laced your mind up in corsets every night."

Byrd quickly changed the subject.

Larry was leaving for Dayton to be gone for two weeks, and there were many matters to be discussed: bills, the payments on the house, insurance.

"I suppose with Pat's help around the house, you'll be able to get along without any maid for a little while," Larry said later.

Byrd was silent. She had her own ideas on the subject, but she decided not to discuss them.

"Larry, I'm not fixing up the back bedroom just now," Byrd said, quietly. "Perhaps later on we'll want to furnish it as a nursery."

Larry's face softened a little, then resumed its impersonal look.

"It would be fun to have a kid or two some day, but we can't think of it right now," he said.

"But we should have our children when we're young so we can enjoy having them grow up with us," broke in Byrd.

"Have you figured the cost of babies?" asked Larry, coolly. "Ask any woman who's had one recently and you'll get the jolt of your life. Why, they're worth their weight in gold!"

Sunday was always a big holiday to Larry and Pat. Without any effort at all, they slept until noon.

Byrd spent the morning in the kitchen. She loved kitchens. In spite of the beauty of her face, and the glory of her rounded, little figure, she was really most at home in a homely little kitchen, with spotted walls, tiled floors and enameled woodwork.

She arranged her new set of Weigand dishes in neat piles on the white shelves and planned for the most economical distribution of the pots, pans and kettles. Her small features shone like a piece of china washed in soap suds.

"Everything's got to be out of sight," said Byrd, to herself. "No dish mop hanging over the sink."

She loved the kitchen. Every new device on the market made cooking an intriguing adventure. In their bathrobes for an hour reading the Sunday paper, Pat and Larry decided to go out for their Sunday dinner.

"I'll eat off the pantry shelf," said Byrd. "I don't want to stop to clean up."

Later, while Byrd was working upstairs, putting clean white papers into dresser drawers and arranging Larry's multitudinous shirts in neat rows, she heard voices below.

It was the Obermans and India, and "this here" Eddie.

"I'll tell the world that Byrd got the early worm, all right. Fred's big voice bloomed up the stairs."

"The cutest, neatest!" was bled Tiny. "As cunning as a kitten and as smart as I wish I had a bird's nest like this!"

Tiny's carmine lips drew together in a little pout.

"Maybe Byrd will let you squeeze in here once in a while," teased Fred. "Careful you don't get stuck in the doorways."

"It's adorable. Isn't it?" remarked India.

"Want one, too?" laughed Eddie. "Not me," said India. "I'll live in a hotel if you ask me."

JORDAN SWINDLER CALLED BY DEATH

Jordan Swindler, Peru, Ind., former Greene County, died at the home of his son, Fred Swindler, near Peru, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to word received here.

Mr. Swindler was born and reared in Greene County but left here a number of years ago. He has often visited here since residing in Indiana.

Several nieces and nephews in Greene County survive. Funeral services will be held at the home of his son, Saturday at 2 p. m., with burial in Peru.

OCTOGENARIAN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

John W. Sanders, 85, died at his home near Port William, Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock.

Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Port William Cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, two sons: Walter, Port William, and Harry, of the home farm; one was 2.09 inches but it was all rain and represented a deficiency of .66 inches below normal for the month.

The average temperature for December was 36.3 degrees the lowest being 4 degrees on December 21. Normal temperature for December is 32.6 degrees. There were nine clear days, nine partly cloudy, thirteen cloudy, seven on which precipitation occurred and there were 142.2 hours of actual sunshine for a percentage of 49.

DRIVE TO COLLECT OLD FINES LAUNCHED

These are fine collection days at City Hall and policemen are assuming the roles of collectors in the interest of the municipal bank-roll.

Chief of Police M. E. Graham says all old fines must be settled at once and he is sending his blue-coated hired hands out to see that old offenders respond to the call for cash.

Outstanding fines on the police court books amount to $800, it is said, and patrolmen have orders to pick up all offenders who have been released under promises to pay and then have neglected to do so.

TEACHERS TO HEAR REPORT OF MEETING

Supt. H. D. Furst, Cedarville and Supt. R. E. Correll, Jamestown will give reports of the State Teachers' Association convention at which they represented Greene County last week at the monthly meeting of Greene County school superintendents, in the offices of County Superintendent H. C. Aultman, Tuesday.

Supt. R. J. Warner, Osborn, and Supt. Louis Hammerle of Xenia City Schools will meet with the county school officials.

FUELING IN AIR SERIOUS TASK

Major Spatz and Sergeant Hooe place the large funnel in position when preparing to take fuel and adjust the two four-inch pipes which carry gasoline from the funnel to the fuselage tanks. From those tanks Sergeant Hooe pumps the gas to wing tanks.

Major Spatz climbs upon a stool

below the opening through which his head and shoulders protrude. Meanwhile Captain Ira C. Eaker, chief pilot aboard the Question Mark, jockeys the big plane into position beneath the fuel-carrying plane. Captain Eaker sits there unconcerned and much like a person sitting in a rocker at home, his eyes fixed on the ceiling.

Pilots in the upper plane disregard the Question Mark entirely. They fly an exact line—straight and level—leaving the lower plane to find its place.

Once the proper places are assumed, Major Spatz signals, for Lieutenant E. R. Questada has the responsibility for passing this signal up and immediately the gas rushes down into the tanks. Usually the contact continues six minutes.

Day or Night Refueling

Gasoline is transferred between planes both during day and night. The air is smoother at night. This helps "make up" for the darkness.

All the flyers are conscious of the dangers involved, but are willing to make as many contacts as possible. At one time during my day-long flight Major Spatz crawled forward over the gas tank to speak to Captain Eaker. In reply to my question, without a smile he replied that all contacts were going forward according to schedule.

During one refueling operation when I attempted to joke with one of the junior officers I failed to arouse even a smile. All were working under great tension—but working with precision.

This is one of the most ambitious experiments of the army. It should help materially to further the cause of aviation.

of influenza, bronchitis, cough, cold or other respiratory infection, is usually a period of great weakness. There is special need for well-selected vitamin-rich nourishment to rebuild resistance. Many people have found nothing quite so beneficial as

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE VITAMIN-RICH COD-LIVER OIL

If you are now passing through a time of weakness, why not let it help nourish you back to strength and vigor. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil that is pleasant to take and digests easily.

DRIVE TO COLLECT OLD FINES LAUNCHED

These are fine collection days at City Hall and policemen are assuming the roles of collectors in the interest of the municipal bankroll.

Chief of Police M. E. Graham says all old fines must be settled at once and he is sending his blue-coated hired hands out to see that old offenders respond to the call for cash.

Outstanding fines on the police court books amount to $800. It is said, and patrolmen have orders to pick up all offenders who have been released under promises to pay and then have neglected to do so.

THE AFTERMATH

of influenza, bronchitis, cough, cold or other respiratory infection, is usually a period of great weakness. There is special need for well-selected vitamin-rich nourishment to rebuild resistance. Many people have found nothing quite so beneficial as

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE VITAMIN-RICH COD-LIVER OIL

If you are now passing through a time of weakness, why not let it help nourish you back to strength and vigor. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil that is pleasant to take and digests easily.

FUELING IN AIR SERIOUS TASK

Major Spatz and Sergeant Hooe place the large funnel in position when preparing to take fuel and adjust the two four-inch pipes which carry gasoline from the funnel to the fuselage tanks. From those tanks Sergeant Hooe pumps the gas to wing tanks.

Major Spatz climbs upon a stool

below the opening through which his head and shoulders protrude. Meanwhile Captain Ira C. Eaker, chief pilot aboard the Question Mark, jockeys the big plane into position beneath the fuel-carrying plane. Captain Eaker sits there unconcerned and much like a person sitting in a rocker at home, his eyes fixed on the ceiling.

Plots in the upper plane disregard the Question Mark entirely. They fly an exact line—straight and level—leaving the lower plane to find its place. Once the proper places are assumed, Major Spatz signals for gas. Lieutenant E. R. Questada has the responsibility for passing this signal up and immediately the gas rushes down into the tanks. Usually the contact continues six minutes.

Day or Night Refueling
Gasoline is transferred between planes both during day and night. The air is smoother at night. This helps "make up" for the darkness. All the flyers are conscious of the dangers involved, but are willing to make as many contacts as possible. At one time during my day-long flight Major Spatz crawled forward over the gas tank to speak to Captain Baker. In reply to my question, without a smile he replied that all contacts were going forward according to schedule.

During one refueling operation when I attempted to joke with one of the junior officers I failed to arouse even a smile. All were working under great tension—but with precision. This is one of the most ambitious experiments of the army it should help materially to further the cause of aviation.
